Miss Pringle Finishes Her Cross-examination and Will Not Be Called on

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The district attorney's office today resumed its search for the unidentified woman who assertedly attempted to keep Eunice Pringle in the office room where she charged she was attacked by the millionaire sportsman, Alexander Pantages.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said he considered the people's case against Pantages sufficient but that the finding of the woman would make it complete. He asked anyone with knowledge of the mystery figure to get in touch with his office.

The woman, according to state's witnesses, tried to pacify Miss Pringle and at the same time aided in preventing persons outside from going to the Pringle girl's rescue.

William Lee Gordon, prosecution witness, resumed the stand for further cross-examination as the session opened.

Gordon, designated as the first person to reach the office in the Pantages building, where Eunice Pringle, 17 year old dancer, asserts she was assaulted by the millionaire, was called by the state.

A blond, neatly dressed young man, Gordon entered the scene late yesterday as the first witness after Miss Pringle, clad in the vivid scarlet dress she said she wore the day of the asserted attack, had weathered a severe cross examniation and

Efforts to Effect Understanding Between Nations Successful

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(UP) — General suggestions for giving practical application to the Kellogg peace pact in a way which would dispose of the freedom of the seas issue, the crux of the Anglo-American problem, are understood here today to be figuring in the discussions between President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald.

These conversations, however, were practically at an end today. The suggested plan likely will go over for later discussion.

The prime minister, after spending the night at the White House, when a state dinner was given in honor of himself and Miss Ishbel, returned to the British embassy today to remain until his departure for Philadelphia Thursday.

The White House dinner, the first state function of the Hoover administration, set a mark for brilliance which Washington society expected to stand for a long time.

The program of the prime minister and Miss Ishbel for today was largely social including luncheon at the Canadian legation and a large formal dinner at the British embassy tonight followed by a reception.

It was understood an important statement concerning the discussions with President Hoover would be forthcoming within the next 48 hours, giving a general outline of what had been discussed and the conclusions reached.

Meantime tomorrow morning the text of the five-power conference invitations will be made public setting forth the general program for this important meeting to be held in London next January.

The prime minister has won Washington by the sincerity with which he has undertaken to clear away the fog of misunderstanding which was rapidly threatening the pleasant relations between the United States and Britain. His address to the senate, offering full parity "heaping and overflowing"

S. A. CHRISTIAN CHURCH PLANS NEW BUILDING

Educational Unit of Plant Will Be Constructed First, Report

PRELIMINARY action was taken last night by the official board of the First Christian church looking to a building program that will eventually result in a fine church plant to serve the needs of the congregation and the community to be erected in the block on Sixth street between Broadway and Birch street.

The first unit of the new plant will be a fine structure to house the Sunday school department on the corner of Sixth and Birch streets. This prospect was the result of the unanimous action of the board last night in endorsing a recommendation of the Sunday school cabinet, presented by C. E. Phillips, superintendent, for the erection of the new building so that it would be

Despondency Reason Given In Two Notes

Sends Bullet Through His Brain in Trego Canyon, Near El Toro

BULLETIN

Ed McClelland, former chief criminal deputy of the sheriff's office, came to his death from gunshot wounds in the head, apparently inflicted with suicidal intent, a corner's jury decided this afternoon in the Winbigler Funeral home.

GEORGE Edward McClellan, 36, formerly, for more than four years chief criminal deputy sheriff here, and one of the best known police officers in Southern California, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, six miles from El Toro, on the Whiting ranch, by shooting himself in the head with a sawed off automatic shotgun.

Despondency caused by worry over his personal business is believed by his friends to have caused him to take his life.

The body was discovered a short time after he fired the fatal shot, lying on the ground beside his automobile, by Frank Serrano, an employe of the Whiting ranch, who was searching for cattle when he made his grewsome discovery. The body was warm at that time, indicating that Serrano arrived possibly within an hour after McClellan died.

The exact location of the suicide is two miles from the main road, in Trego canyon, which is a part of the Whiting lease.

McClellan had been working on the ranch for the past three weeks. He was in Santa Ana several days ago, talking with friends, but at that time seemed to be in fairly good spirits. Prior to his taking the position on the ranch he sold farm implements for a Santa Ana concern, and prior to

OIL OPERATORS IN CONFERENCE ON GAS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Two committees, one formed from independent oil operators and the other composed of representatives of the major oil companies, will meet here today in an effort to draw up a contract regarding the co-operative operation of three major oil fields and the repressuring of gas in underground storage.

The final public meeting was held yesterday before R. A. Bush, state oil and gas supervisor.

Detective Charged With Attempt To Influence Witness

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Harold Dolley, said to be a private detective, was under arrest today charged with having attempted to influence Ivan P. T. Samsonoff, a witness in the Alexander Pantages assault trial.

The detective, formerly a federal prohibition enforcement official, was named in an indictment returned by the county grand jury.

HAMMERS OUT HOME RUN

Jimmy Foxx, first baseman for the Athletics made the first run of the 1929 world series when he connected for a circuit clout in the seventh inning.

N. Y. STRIKE TO BE SETTLED IN NEXT 24 HOURS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Predictions of a settlement of the strike of market truckmen within the next 24 hours was heard today as the walkout spread to Harlem, Brooklyn and other nearby points and consumers began to feel the pinch in their pocketbooks.

The truckmen, who transport New York's perishable food stuffs from terminals to refrigerator warehouses and other distribution points want an eight hour day with time and a half for overtime.

Perishables such as fruit and vegetables increased as much as 25 per cent in price in the outlying districts and an extreme shortage was threatened today in Yonkers, White Plains, Tarrytown and other Westchester points.

An indication of a speedy settlement of the walkout was seen in the action of Acting Governor Herbert Lehman, who stepped into the situation at noon yesterday but withdrew a few hours later when the disputants seemed willing to settle their differences among themselves.

Produce dealers bore the weight of accumulating and unmovable perishables. An additional $1,000,000 worth of produce rolled into freight terminals over night, threatening a possible total loss of more than $6,000,000.

CULT LEADERS HELD IN JAIL PENDING PROBE

SANTA PAULA, Calif., Oct. 8.—(UP)—The graves of two mules, reported sacrificed by members of "the Royal Arms of the Great Eleven" in weird rites by the spiritual cult, were to be opened by authorities today.

Officials are attempting to learn the secrets of the organization as a result of the revelation that the body of Willa Rhoads, 16, was preserved in ice and spices and buried beneath the flooring in her step-parents' Los Angeles home to await resurrection.

It was reported by neighbors near the cult's Santa Susanna headquarters that the mules were killed and an orgy held after pilgrims had returned from the desert near Stovepipe Wells, where an unexplained "mathematical context" was established.

In the cult headquarters was found furniture, built to resemble lions and covered with gold leaf, which was to have been placed in a temple to be prepared for the return of Christ to earth. Four sacred horses are in a pasture near the house.

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 8. — (UP) — Howard Ehmke, a surprise pitcher put into the first inning of the world series at the last moment by wily old Connie Mack, defeated the Chicago Cubs today, 3 to 1, striking out thirteen National League batters and giving the Philadelphia Athletics a victory in the opening.

The Cubs were unable to score until the ninth, when Ehmke was temporarily disabled by a line drive.

Jimmy Foxx, first baseman hit a home run into the center field bleachers in the seventh inning.

Bing Miller's single in the ninth drove in two more Philadelphia runs after two errors by English had put men on base.

ENDORSEMENT GIVEN STATE PARK SITE BY COMMITTEES

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 8.—Endorsement of the state park site along the ocean front from Newport Beach to Huntington Beach was given without dissenting vote by a joint committee from the Orange County Coast association and the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County last night at a meeting held in the Yacht Club. Concurrent with the endorsement was a resolution pledging both groups to work for the Santa Margarita ranch as a district state park, with a committee of five to go before the California Asociation of Realty Boards at San Diego this week to place the project before that body and ask support of it, also to bring it before Chamber of Commerce of San Diego county.

George Raymer, representing the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, presiding at the joint committee meeting, stated that there were three projects and that the state park board had requested that one be decided on. He informed the members of the committees that he expected to go to Sacramento next week and wanted to have a decision to present. Three projects had been discussed at various times, Mr. Raymer said, and it would be necessary to decide which is to receive support.

T. B. Talbert, president of the Orange County Coast association, and strong supporter of the Newport Beach-Huntington Beach project, said that conversations he had had with park officials had indicated that the policy is now for each coast county to advance a project and raise funds to match the state appropriation of money. San Diego, Los Angeles, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties have already taken steps in coastline county park projects, he reported.

FANS ENJOY LUNCHES AND SCORE BOARD AT SAME TIME

What a kindly provision of Providence it was, to arrange the precession of the equinoxes, the rotation of the earth on its axis, and other phenomena of nature, so that when the World Series is relayed to us by wire and wireless in this progressive age, it so exactly coincides with Santa Ana's noonday lunch hour!

It would be impossible to visit the Register's big score board at Birch park and avoid such a thought, after seeing the noonday throng of fans gathered to watch the results of today's first game of the series, at the same time munching sandwiches, pie, pickles and other contents of well-filled lunch boxes, totally unconscious of what they were eating—aware only of the lights flashing on the score board, indicating the positions of the various players on that field more than half way across the continent.

All the old timers were down at the park, lured by the announcement that the score board was to be moved from its accustomed place on the north wall of the Register building, and installed at the band stand in the park, where the hundreds of fans could watch it with more ease. Just the same the Register building looked and felt deserted. Where were the hundreds of cheering mortals that shuffled and shouted and ate peanuts on the street through the two exciting hours of each day of the World Series?

Perhaps the crowd was lonely too, for somehow some of the old time excitement and noise seemed sadly missing. Perhaps it was because skeptical attitude which many on that body have held toward Britain's attitude on naval limitation.

Thousands of persons who have seen the British labor prime minister here have been pleasantly surprised at his understanding of American feelings and the eloquence he displayed before the senate.

Miss Ishbel likewise has won favorable comment. Her trip with Mrs. Hoover to the child research center testified to her interest in social problems as her two and a half hour horseback ride with the first lady at the Rapidan camp testified to her sportsmanship.

The plan for dealing with the troublesome freedom of the seas problem through the Kellogg peace pact is MacDonald's. He has been conscious of the strong views in the United States toward Britain's command of the seas—an attitude traditional since the issue provoked the war of 1812. He believes this problem must be settled before there can be genuine friendship on a permanent basis. Britain however, is reluctant to abandon a cherished position on the seas which she feels is ivtal to her safety in time of war.

hTe Kellogg peace pact, in MacDonald's opinion, offers a means of reconciling the differences between England and the United States on this question.

By that pact all nations signing it pledge themselves to abandon war as an instrument of national policy. MacDonald's belief is that if this pact means anything there never will be war except with an outlaw nation.

He feels the United States and Britain could with other nations join in an understanding over neutral rights predicated upon the anti-war principle of the Kellogg pact.

What President Hoover thinks of this plan is unknown. He has been reluctant to complicate the naval limitation conference by bringing this subject into it. For this reason it is not believed this subject will come into the London conference. However, congress last winter in the cruiser building bill inserted a clause specifying congress favored a treaty or treaties with all chief sea powers "regulating the conduct of belligerents and neutrals at sea, including the inviolability of private property thereon."

It longer to get a run in this game than is usual in the first game of a world's series. Last year the Yankees scored in the first inning of the first game with the Cardinals, the year before both the Piartes and Yankees counted in round one of game one and the same was true in the 1926 series between the Yankees and Cardinals.

Today, However, neither side threatened to score in the first inning. The Athletics had an opening i nthe second when Foxx led off with a single to left. Miller fanned and Dykes sent Foxx to second with a single to left. Boley's lack of speed, however, snuffed out that budding rally. English stumbled in fielding Boley's grounder but the latter ran so slowly he was doubled at first after Dykes had been forced at second.

The Cubs had the first major opening for a run when McMillan singled to center and took third on a line double to right by English in the third inning.

The big punch of the Cubs was up but Ehmke pitched sidearm curves to both Hornsby and Wilson with rare confidence and got each on strikes, requiring only three balls to dispose of Wilson. Both sluggers swung at their third strikes.

From then on until the seventh the pitchers were supreme, Root retiring the A's in order in the fourth, fifth and sixth and Ehmke doing likewise with the Cubs.

Root had turned back 12 Mackmen in a row when Foxx faced him with one out in the seventh and delivered a home run into the trick bleachers in left center to break the scoreless tie. Wilson chased the fly to the fence and then had to stand helpless while it fell safe a few feet behind him.

Being behind brought the Cubs partially out of their trance and they threatened to pull one of their rallies like they used in winning the pennant but Ehmke again sat down on them.

Cuyler led off with a sharp single off Boley's foot and Stephenson cracked a single to left. Grimm moved them up one base each with the first sacrifice of the game and McCarthy, attempting to save Root for the mound the rest of the game, jerked Taylor and sent in Cliff Heathcote, his leading left-handed pinch hitter. Cliff's effort, however, was a pop fly which Simmons caught back of short and neither runner could advance. McCarthy then jerked Root and sent up Gabby Hartnett, his sore armed catcher who swings a mean stick, at times, and Ehmke fed him some of those arc curves and made him his 12th strike-out victim.

Guy Bush, Root's successor, yielded two cheap runs in the ninth and they turned out to be the winning margin as the Cubs likewise scored an unearned marker in their final turn at bat. English cracked at short for the Cubs in the ninth, twice fumbling double play balls. After Cochrane had opened with a scratch single through Hornsby English kicked a double play grounder by Simmons and then fumbled a similar grounder by Foxx.

today's game offered nothing spectacular for the earlier innings. But somehow we like to think that the crowd missed looking up at the Register building, with its upper windows filled with other fans drawn from the office force—and their friends.

But if it was not a noisy crowd it was a hungry one. Especially the school boy contingent. If there were any frosh youths left on the high school campus, it must have been those who were so nearsighted that they couldn't have seen a score board. And all of them were nibbling candy bars or eskimo pies. Mail carriers were lingering to watch results, eating their lunches in the shade of the trees. Over on the grass, workmen from nearby construction jobs, combined noon hours with ball game most satisfactorily. Bank clerks, Standard Oil drivers, merchants, the "butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker," were all there—and hovering on the outskirts of the crowd, peering through a growth of reddish beard that swept from eye brows to chin, was a pathetic old man, ragged, dirty, unkempt, a roll of soiled bedding across his shoulders,—a typical "bundle-stiff," drawn to the park from his wanderings, by the same lure that drew the well-dressed banker just ahead of him—the Great American Game.

And over in the far corner of the park, a group of old men gave close attention to checkers, and W. H. Zimmerman, Santa Ana's 94-year-old globe-trotter, waited for a few other comrades to join him to start the second game. Not theirs to waste time on the strenuous exercise of baseball. For them, a quiet, sunswept corner of the lovely little park and the round discs of the checkers. And finally, at the very exit, an old soldier, wearing the blue uniform and corded hat of the Grand Army of the Republic, recounted a stirring tale of the Days of '61, holding enthralled a man young enough to be his grandson, until the latter, with fascinated gaze on the bearded face of this teller of tales, completely forgot that there was a World Series. He was living in a past that was old a generation before his day.

went far toward dissipating the ready for dedication June 8, as a fitting celebration of the 190th Pentecost. The board also ordered a committee appointed to plan the work and make necessary arrangements for financing and construction as well as securing plans that will insure one of the finest buildings in Southern California for the work of the church among the young people of Santa Ana.

The action followed a stirring sermon last Sunday morning by the Reverend Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor, under whose leadership the church is making rapid strides of progress, in which he told of the crowded conditions existing in the present quarters of the church school and of the pressing need for expansion to care for the boys and girls, young men and young women, who were crowding the rooms every Sunday to participate in the program presented under the direction of the staff of Sunday school leaders.

Unanimous decision of the cabinet of the Sunday School department of the church to undertake the step leading to the erection of a new building was made at the last meeting of this body and incorporated in the request which was presented to the board last night by Superintendent Phillips.

The present housing facilities of the church include the main auditorium at the corner of Sixth and Broadway, the community house at the rear of the church building, and two smaller buildings back of that toward Birch street. Various departments of the Sunday school are contained in all of these buildings and the growth of the attendance has made the present quarters far too small.

The new educational unit, which will be the foundation for the new church building, will probably cost in the neighborhood of $15,000 or $18,000, although no definite plans have been announced in this connection. The committee to handle the preliminary plans and work out details will be appointed by T. D. Knights, chairman of the board, in the near future.

Church leaders at the meeting last night expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the forward step and definite assurance is seen for a building program that will probably commence with the beginning of 1930. The matter is to be presented to the congregation for their approval next Sunday morning.

Ask County Board To Bar Fires On Beach and Parking

Through the board of supervisors of Orange county the Sunset Beach Chamber of Commerce today was seeking to have ordinances passed to prohibit parking on Pacific avenue and to prevent the building of camp fires on the beach at tha' city.

Pacific avenue is but 10 feet wide and a carelessly parked car completely blocks the road, the chamber of commerce letter stated. Camp fires on the beach tend to restroy its appearance and also present a fire menace, it was pointed out.

Whether the county has jurisdiction in regard to the parking problem was questioned by the board. The county owns the beach as far as the high tide line and could act to prevent camp fire building there, it was indicated. The matter was taken under advisement.

THE General Electric Refrigerator assures the apartment dweller of the utmost in comfort, luxury and health-guarding refrigeration. The hermetically sealed mechanism, mounted on top of the cabinet, out of the way, requires so little attention —not even oiling. The rugged warp-proof all steel cabinet is a thing of such beauty—so long-lived, so easy to clean.

In addition, the General Electric has this feature which makes it ideal for apartment use. Each tenant has absolutely independent control of his own machine. He regulates the temperature to suit his needs. He defrosts it to suit his convenience. No action of any other tenant or of the superintendent can in any way affect the service of his machine.

Is it surprising that day-by-day you find that more good landlords, good apartments and good General Electrics are getting together?

Today there are more than 350,000 General Electric Refrigerators in use, and not one owner has ever had to spend a single dollar for repairs or service.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Instead of wondering and questioning why men have to suffer, ask God to show you how to develop strength and beauty of character through what you have to endure.

It is far less important that you should understand the reason why grief and disappointment comes into life than that you should attain capacity to so live through it that richer and finer and nobler qualities should become yours.

Whether sunshine or shadow predominates in your life, always know that God shares them with you and that through whatever comes you are given power to acquire the strength to enter into the joys which are yet to be yours.

BELIEVE BODY MAY BE THAT OF H. BALCOM

With murder definitely established as the cause of death, Orange county officers today concentrated their efforts on determining the identity of the body found on a ranch near Huntington Beach Sunday, by two hunters.

Possibility that the murdered man may have been Henry M. Balcom, who disappeared from his home, at 318 Eighth street, Huntington Beach, was being investigated. Balcom, who was estranged from his wife, answers the general description of the murdered man. A warrant, charging non-support of a minor child, was sworn out following his disappearance. Mrs. Balcom was to view pictures of the murder victim today in an effort to establish identity.

An autopsy was conducted in the county hospital yesterday afternoon by Dr. Tock. Death was held due to a blow on the back of the neck by a blunt instrument. The skull and the neck were broken by the blow. The chest had been hacked by an axe and other portions of the body cut by a knife.

Possibility that the man had committed suicide were scouted today by officers. Apparently a terrifice fight took place before life left the murder victim, as blood was smeared on the fence and trees near the chicken yard where the body was discovered.

The body was discovered by H. E. Bracy and E. E. Davis, of Huntington Park, who were hunting snipes at the time. The body was badly decomposed. portions having been eaten away by vultures.

Woman Held To Trial On Charge Of Contributing

Mrs. Coro Tays, of Huntington Beach, was held to answer to the superior court from the justice court, this morning, on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minor girls and receiving stolen property.

She is accused of causing three Huntington Beach girls to steal clothes for her and also is charged, on a separate complaint, with receiving stolen property.

The girls and Mrs. Tays were taken into custody by Santa Ana police officers on September 6, when the girls are alleged to have stolen dresses from the Montgomery Ward store, the Rankin Dry Goods company store and the Merrill Dollar store here.

LAW SITUATION DESCRIBED IN CLUB ADDRESS

"Law Enforcement" was discussed by J. Frank Burke, editor of The Register, at the bi-monthly meeting of the executive board of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs in the clubhouse of the Brea Woman's club yesterday afternoon.

The speaker declared that he thought in some respects this law enforcement is the most important question that can come up before any body of citizens today. That it is important is evidenced by the articles which are appearing in the newspapers and periodicals of the day, and the attention President Hoover has been devoting to it, he said.

Tells of Racket

He touched on the situation in Chicago, where the Chicago Tribune switched from a policy of defending law violation when it was ascertained that $136,000,000 had been paid to racketeers in a single year, to a position favoring law enforcement. Giving a definition of law, he then declared that laws must be changed to meet changing conditions. People are cheating in the game of life who violate the law, and take advantage of the rules, he said.

The speaker said he firmly believed that men have a right to violate a law which is in opposition to God's law. Patrick Henry, in his famous speech in the House of Burgesses, was obeying God's law rather than man's law. He said he had sympathy with a man who openly came out and declared he was against a law, and was willing to take the consequences.

"But," he declared, "did you ever hear of anybody ever doing and saying that in relation to the Eighteenth amendment? They always have some alibi or other, but never take such an open stand."

Law Enforcement

He then outlined certain things which are increasing disrespect for law. The first is failure to observe it ourselves, and second to failure to discountenance it in others. Then there is discrimination between the rich and poor, which tends to break down the respect for the law. Quite often the officials will enforce the law, when conditions are bad, when they are just informed that some of the leaders want the law enforced. It is therefore necessary and desirable that the people show that they want the law enforced, and that will go a long way toward increasing respect for law and getting it enforced, he said.

Mrs. John J. Cox, president of the Brea Woman's club, and her officers acted as hostesses.

The meeting opened at 10 o'clock with Mrs. Joseph Thurston, county president in the chair. Mrs. Thurston was assisted by Mrs. R. E. Downs, vice president; Mrs. William G. Knox, recording secretary; Miss Mary K. Wing, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. E. Warren, treasurer; Mrs. E. E. Smith, parliamentarian. The junior past president, Mrs. Albert Launer, now district auditor, was on the platform.

Presidents Speak

County presidents were asked to tell of the work outlined for their clubs for the current year and the following responses were made: Mrs. Harry Sears for Mrs. Charles E. Harbeson, Anaheim Ebell club; Mrs. John J. Cox, Brea Woman's club; Mrs. Warren, Buena Park Woman's club; Mrs. A. P. Nelson, Costa Mesa Friday Afternoon club; Mrs. George W. Lewis, Woman's Civic club, Garden Grove; Mrs. Thos. A. Cummings, Woman's club, Laguna Beach; Mrs. John G. Launer, Woman's Improvement club, La Habra; Mrs. Elmer Johns, Woman's Improvement club, Los Alamitos; Mrs. Maurice Moran, Ebell club of Newport Beach; Mrs. Lottie Summers, Woman's Civic league, Newport Beach; Mrs. Walter Kogler for Mrs. Leon Des Larzes, Woman's club, Orange; Mrs. Arthur L. Anderson, Placentia Round Table; Mrs. Robert G. Tuthill, the Ebell Society of Santa Ana valley; Mrs. William Whitehead, Woman's club, Santa Ana; Miss Una MacClatchie, Yorba Linda Woman's club. Each of these gave a brief resume of the work they will pursue with their club members, all indicating that "Service" has become the watchword of Orange county club women.

Chairmen Introduced

The following state chairmen were introduced: Mrs. A. P. Nelson, industrial and social relations; Mrs. Joseph E. Henck, Skyforest, chairman of highways, water and waterways; Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Tustin, member of the organization council. District chairmen were introduced as follows: Mrs. Thos. L. McFadden, Placentia, California history and landmarks; Mrs. Harry Sears, Anaheim, literature; Mrs. E. E. Smith, Anaheim, international relations; Mrs. C. H. Van Dugternen, Lake Arrowhead, music.

Mrs. Henck praised the work being done by the state highway commission and urged that club women keep informed on the Englebright bill now before the state, a bill which proposes to provide money for the prevention of forest fires

It was stated that the county federation will be asked to adopt a resolution in connection with the World Court at its semi-annual convention in Anaheim on October 25. At this time, Mrs. Van Hooper, national chairman of international relations will be present and will address the club women.

A communication was read from the Armistice day committee, under the auspices of the American Legion, asking for the co-operation of club women in the feature parade planned for November 11. On motion it was voted that the matter rest in the hands of individual clubs.

Dr. Sutherland Speaks

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, spoke briefly emphasizing the prevention of tuberculosis, complimenting club women for the interest they have taken in the Orange county preventorium.

Mrs. Lailor, Laguna Beach, a nurse connected with the Orange county health camp, outlined the working of that institution and impressed the club women with the urgent need of funds just now to tide them over until the sale of the seals begin.

Mrs. Kogler presented Mrs. J. F. Schweitzer, Mrs. George Reihl, and Mrs. Floyd Annin, members of the Fullerton Ebell club's music section, who sang four trio numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ashley Doss. Mrs. Doss played a melody in D flat, a number composed by a school friend.

Mrs. W. D. Shaffer, county chairman of Federation News, asked the co-operation of county presidents in appointing in their respective clubs chairmen who are wide-awake and interested in the advancement of the federation publication. Several subscriptions to the Federation News were given Mrs. Shaffer at this meeting.

A condensed pamphlet, a primer of facts on the World Court, edited by Mrs. E. E. Smith, southern district chairman of international relations, was distributed to the club women present by Mrs. Smith in an effort to make all acquainted with the important points.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?
Use Tysmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tysmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing, aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

Tysmol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at C. S. Kelley Drug Co.—Adv.

PERECT SHOE FIT INSURED BY X-RAY

Citizens of Santa Ana are considered fortunate to now have X-ray fitter service when purchasing shoes in Newcomb's footwear shop, on West Fourth street. The intricate machine is said to be a guaranteeof perfect fits and takes the guesswork out of the business.

The expensive machine is the latest scientific and modern development and is being used by cuch firms as Marshall Field and company, in Chicago; Summer and Coffman, in San Francisco, and Wetherby Keyser, in Los Angeles. It is the only one of its kind in Santa Ana.

The X-ray is proving highly satisfactory, is particularly worthwhiel in the fitting of growing children's shoes.

Anyone interested in the machine, or those who desire to see whether or not they are wearing the correct type of shoes for their feet, are invited to inspect the machine.

Several New Features Are Introduced in Vehicle; In Service Tomorrow

The city of Santa Ana will place in operation tomorrow what city authorities say is the last word in garbage trucks. The body of the truck was designed in the office of the city engineer and plans and specifications were carried out by mechanics in the city garage—the result being equipment that attests the ability of men in the engineer's office and in the garage.

That the designers had consideration for householders in their expense account in keeping good garbage cans is indicated by the fact that the low sides of the container on the truck will make it possible for pick-up men to dump the cans without jamming or smashing them. The height from the ground to the sides is four and one-half feet.

The top covers are built in three sections of three feet each and access to the container is amplified by doors that drop down from the side. With the side door and the drop door open, only three feet of the interior is exposed at one time, a feature, plus the top, that will eliminate to a large extent the gathering of flies on the truck or in the tank. In fact, the claim is made by City Engineer Clyde Jenken that the container is fly proof.

The garbage container is built on a Reo bus chassis, the complete equipment costing the city $3300. The new vehicle will replace an old truck that has been in service for a number of years and which has a capacity of only five and one-half yards.

NEW CLOTHING STORE TO OPEN ON TOMORROW

The new Foreman and Clark clothing establishment will be open for business at the corner of Birch and Fourth streets at 9 a. m., tomorrow. From 6 o'clock to 9 o'clock tomorrow night no merchandise will be sold, but citizens of Orange county are invited to inspect the remodeled store.

At the formal opening an opportunity will be given business and professional men to note the favorite conservative clothing that is being carried by the new firm. The highest grade woolens from American and European mills are to be featured for winter wear.

J. A. Holmberg, of Minneapolis, Minn., who moved to a ranch north of the Santa Ana city limits five years ago, and Floyd Lakeman, of Anaheim, who was educated in his native county, Orange, are partners in the new enterprise. Lakeman handled the Foreman and Clark line exclusively in Anaheim for two years.

Holmberg has been in the clothing business over 30 years, 20 years as a merchant and 12 years, previous to that time, on the road as a salesman. He was active in social affairs in Minneapolis, being president of one of the largest commercial clubs, clerk of the M. W. A., and in constant demand in civic affairs.

SEEK FULLERTON ORANGE THIEVES

Apprehension of the gang of thieves who staged their second raid in the Fullerton district recently was believed near today by private detectives employed by Mrs. Emma M. Hill, whose property at Spadra and Orangethorpe was stripped of more than $3000 worth of fruit.

Several weeks ago thieves raided the grove of S. W. Smith in the Fullerton district and made away with fruit valued at approximately $5000.

According to reports, Mrs. Hill received a warning that her property was to be raided but failed to take steps to guard her property.

IS "100 PER CENT BETTER" EVERY WAY HE STATES

"Thanks to Sargon, I'm the very picture of health now, but I've certainly had my share of troubles. My appetite fell off about a year ago and what little I ate disagreed with me.

JOHN JACKSON

"My energy and vitality were about all gone and I was in a terribly rundown condition. Many nights I'd lie awake for hours and mornings would find me completely exhausted. I had bad headaches and was bilious and constipated. I finally had to quit work entirely.

"Now, after four bottles of Sargon, I'm just like a new man. I'm eating better than in years and my food digests perfectly. My nerves are in fine condition and I sleep good every night. Sargon Pills rid me of constipation and biliousness and I never have headaches any more. I just feel 100 per cent better in every way." —John Jackson, 384 Oak St., San Francisco.

The brilliant achievements of Sargon are unquestionably one of the brightest pages in the history of modern medical science. Sargon's fame is based on actual results—not empty promises.

Sargon may be obtained in Santa Ana at the Schramm-Johnson Drug Store.—Adv.

SIX COMPLETE SYMPHONIES TO BE GIVEN FANS

Six complete symphonies will be performed during the winter for radio listeners by the General Electric Symphony orchestra, it was announced today by Walter Damrosch, who resumes conducting the Saturday evening concerts on October 12. These programs will be broadcast during the General Electric hour through the NBC coast-to-coast system from 6 to 8 p. m., Pacific standard time.

Damrosch, who also conducts the National orchestra, has announced plans for the entire winter series. Glazunov's Symphony No. 3 will be the first complete symphony. It is scheduled for November 18. Damrosch has selected for the other five symphonies of Beethoven, Tchaikovsky, Mozart, Brahms and Haydn. He explained that he has received a deluge of requests for complete symphonies and has concluded that the musical intelligence of radio audiences warrants the innovation.

"I have refrained from giving too large doses of any one work and have included only portions of symphonies in my programs," he declared. "Now, however, I am convinced that radio listeners are as eager and capable of enjoying the same musical fare as the regular concert hall audiences."

The program for Damrosch's first concert on October 12 includes the "Unfinished Symphony" by Schubert, "Entrance of the Little Fauns" by Pierne, "Summer Night on the River" by Delius, the "Magic Fire Music" from "The Valkyries" by Wagner, and "Italian Caprice" by Tchaikovsky.

East And West Will Contribute To RKO Program

Broadcast from the east and the west, stars of the stage will be put on tonight's Radio-Keith Orpheum hour program, between 8 and 9 o'clock, Pacific standard time, for the NBC system audience.

The opening half-hour will be a transcontinental broadcast and after 8:30 stars now on the Pacific coast will be heard.

Stations KHQ, Spokane; KOMO, Seattle; KGW, Portland; KGO, Oakland; KPO, San Francisco, and KFI, Los Angeles, will broadcast this offering.

WALTZ MEDLEY ON C. A. EARL PROGRAM

Phil Spitalny, director, and his C. A. Earl Orchestradians will interpret a diversified program between 7:30 and 8 tonight, for the audience of the coast-to-coast network of NBC system stations, including KFI.

The second "Hungarian Rhapsody" by Liszt is the first selection and another tone is set by "I May Be Wrong," which follows. A medley of waltz numbers will be an unusual feature with the musicians interpreting "Dark Eyes," "Evangeline" and "Blue Hawaii."

That Brutal Overseer Roasts in Hades!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Wise legislation has halted the ancient prejudice that dictated the exploitation of child labor for selfish gain. Guided by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE it has routed greed. No longer are little children forced into slavery.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

The Story of a Man Who Loved a Ukelele Better than Fortune.

By... Fannie Hurst

Highest Paid Short Story Writer in the World

Tinkling away his evenings in a Greenwich Village cafe, where he received in return a cot in an attic and his three meals a day, young Morrell met and fell in love with a girl named Rachel Taylor, eighteen, bizarrely beautiful, and an art student in the quarter.

JAMES G. MORRELL was a graduate of two American universities and a French one. He had a Bachelor of Arts degree, a Master of Arts degree, and a Doctor of Laws degree. He spoke four languages fluently, and knew the piano, violin, and organ, all three of which he played with brilliancy, to say nothing of such lesser instruments as the guitar and banjo.

When he was twenty-five, his patrimony consisted solely of his magnificent education and what natural talents were so generously his.

The Senior Morrell, his father and sole surviving relative, had died a week after he had lost his enormous holdings in a Wall Street crash.

The incredible sequel to that procedure lay in the fact that young Morrell, instead of feeling the crush of sudden poverty, realized within himself a sense of elation and release, that at first was incomprehensible to him. What had happened was that a vagabond, who had all his life been imprisoned by circumstance, felt himself suddenly freed.

For the first time in his carefully designed life, the young Morrell dared to admit to himself that he despised the profession of law that had been mapped out for him as the son of his wealthy father; that he despised the social routine in which he had been born and bred; that he was a free-lance at heart and that at last he was at liberty to be himself.

That is how, during the next five years in the Bohemian quarters in practically every large city and seaport the figure of James Morrell was to become a familiar one. The tall slender young fellow, cultured, nonchalant, but a vagabond in dress and manner of living, became a wanderer in the various Bohemias of the world. A small ukelele, his only bit of luggage, he tinkled for a living.

James Morrell wandered from capital-city to capital-city, from seaport to seaport, from Shanghai to Seattle; from Seattle to Boston; from Boston to Trieste; from Trieste to Constantinople; from Constantinople to Rome; from Rome to Paris; from Paris to Marseilles; and so on and on, tinkling away on his ukulele for which, in return, he received his simple board and lodging.

For the first time in his carefully cultivated, extremely sophisticated young lifetime, James Morrell was happy. A vagabond. A minstrel. New scenes, new peoples, new pastimes. No struggle for existence because existence could be so simple. The world was what you made it. Young Morrell had made his a playground, a careless garden in which to sun himself. Big business, big destiny, big responsibility passed him by. There was never anything but loose change in his pockets, a loose jingle in his fingertips and a nonchalance in his heart.

James Morrell, Jr., who had been reared as the only child of a millionaire, turned gratefully to Bohemia.

IT was in the Bohemia that is New York's, some five and a half years after the death of his father, that young Morrell walked into a situation that was to deter his footsteps from their willy-nilly wanderings.

Tinkling away his evenings in a Greenwich Village cafe, where he received in return a cot in an attic and his three meals a day, young Morrell met and fell in love with a girl named Rachel Taylor, eighteen, bizarrely beautiful, and an art student in the quarter.

She was the daughter of a coal merchant in Pittsburgh and her foray into Bohemia was the equivalent of a year abroad after a finishing school.

The spirit of Bohemia was no more the spirit of Rachel Taylor, than the spirit of Madagascar.

Young Morrell was not to know that until after he had married her. He fell in love with her in the physical environment of Bohemia; he first beheld her in the candlelit shadows of garret-studios and cellar-cafes. To him she was drenched with this spirit of vagabondage, and it must be said for Rachel Taylor that she believed herself to be filled with that gypsy instinct.

They were married on the capital of two dollars and forty cents between them, and the young troubadour felt himself on the pinnacles of romance. For the first year they lived in a garret, while Rachel painted futuristic ladies on satin cushion tops, and tried to sell them at Women's Exchanges, and James tinkled his ukulele for their evening meal and the slant roof over their heads.

AT the end of the second year, with their romance lying in ruins about them, James, no longer able to withstand the importunings of a wife who was with child, accepted a position of apprentice in a Pittsburgh law office, which had been obtained for him by his coal-merchant father-in-law.

That is the beginning. If ever a man was predestined for commercial success that man was James Morrell. As his father-in-law, who had in the beginning secretly despised him, put it, everything that Morrell touched turned to gold, and the curious part of it was that it did not seem to be due to any genius that the fellow brought to his work.

There was something of a chained wild beast about Morrell. He endured his success in much the same way he endured his environment, his wife, and even his child. He saw it piling up about him and he let it pile. He stood in the court-room declaiming in behalf of the great corporations he represented, and it sometimes seemed to him that some one on the outside of him was doing the speaking, while he, the shell of an individual, stood there caring not at all.

It could almost be said of James Morrell that he did not turn a hand, considering the magnitude of his so-called achievements. He had an eye for the law, and a tongue that could, on the proper occasion, grow eloquent, but so had other men of less success.

When she was thirty, Rachel Taylor, who loved the life of creature-things, creature-comforts, and creature-magnificence, saw herself slowly climbing toward the very pinnacle of such attainments.

James Morrell was easily the foremost lawyer of the state to say nothing of the prospects of political power and position which lay ahead.

They used to say laughingly of Rachel Taylor Morrell that she had more than once referred to her husband as the future President of the United States.

BE that as it may, there was no doubt that the beautiful reddish eyes of Rachel were directed toward the seat of the mighty which she expected Morrell one day to occupy. One aspect of realization came to her in a vicarious way while James was still in his highly successful role of corporation lawyer. The lovely daughter of the James Morrells, Annice, aged eighteen, eloped one day in a hydroplane with the only child of one of the great oil magnates of the world. In Rachel's opinion, that was the greatest plume in the cap of the Morrells that had yet been planted there.

Ten years later, the two grandchildren of the James Morrells had been presented with a trust fund of five million each by their paternal grandparents, and James Morrell had fastened on his wife a lifetime income that amounted to over one million a year.

Two months subsequent to this legal act, the cities of Pittsburgh and New York awakened one day to headlines announcing the mysterious disappearance of James Morrell. Secret searchings had been going on for over a period of weeks before the general alarm was finally givn out to a disquieted world.

After months of publicity, searchings and expeditions of secret service men to various parts of the world, the publicity was suddenly hushed up.

Mrs. Morrell resumed her haughty impressive life as social leader. Newspapers, for one reason or another, left off their playing up of this meaty story of disappearance of James Morrell.

It was whispered about among those "in the know" that it had cost Mrs. James Morrell a king's ransom to thus stamp out the conspicuous happening of her husband's disappearance.

THE truth of it, of course, was that James Morrell had finally been ferreted out, playing his ukulele in a fantastic harbor cafe at Marseilles.

After one conference with her husband, Rachel Taylor Morrell, who had a good head on her, realized the futility of attempting to bait or lure or threaten her husband back into his proper setting. As she talked to him in his slit of a room in Marseilles, she realized that here was a man twenty-five years younger than the one who had left her a few months before; here was a man who had grasped back his happiness after it had all slipped from him; here was a beloved vagabond in his proper setting.

James Morrell is pretty well forgotten now, even by Rachel who divorced him and is married again.

He may be found tinkling his way through the different Bohemias of the world. His ukulele is always with him and his worldly possessions are the few pennies that jingle in his pockets.

ON the one hand, the clear, commanding call of fame and fortune, social position, respectability, on the other, the faint tinkle of a ukelele that meant youth and nonchalance, poverty and obliteration. James Morrell heard the two calls and made his answer.

West Newport Beach Improvements Ordered

WORK SLATED TO COMMENCE IN SHORT TIME

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 8.—A petition with over 400 names requesting a number of improvements in West Newport was presented at the council meeting last night.

Deepening of the two main canals, a 40-foot cut to the channel, all to be five feet in depth at low water; a 20-foot bridge with five feet additional for pedestrians across thecanal, and the complete improvement of the swiming pool were among the features.

The attorney for the Orange County Improvement association, stating that all differences between the lot owners committee and the company had been ironed out, requested that the council speed up the proceedings so that work could begin at an early date.

The request was granted and City Attorney Thompson promised to have the papers ready to proceed on next Monday night.

A letter from Walter D. Clark, of Riverside, stating his approval of the proposed work, was read.

A letter from the chamber of commerce concerning additional recompense from the local hospital for city work was filed.

Ralph P. Maskey protested against the condition of three oil derricks which are said to be in as unsafe condition as the one which was blown down the other day.

Maskey's request to have the grade stake set and inspector furnished for installation of curbing was granted and the city engineer was ordered to proceed with the work upon receipt of the estimated expense, $125.

A petition of 125 citizens of Balboa island was received requesting additional fire and police protection. It was filed to await action on the acquiring of a suitable site for headquarters.

It was decided that this city will co-operate with the general effort being put forth by the health department towards the elimination of the mosquito nuisance. Participation by the city was made contingent upon all other portions of the proposed district affiliating themselves with the movement.

A letter was received acknowledging the receipt of the request of the allocation of 10,000 h. p. of electric energy to this city from Boulder dam.

The city attorney was instructed to draw up the papers incident to the transfer of property on Balboa Island for the use of the fire department.

Ordinance 216 allowing tents with 50 per cent of walls in use was passed to the city attorney to change so as to permit nothing larger than beach umbrellas on any of the municipal beaches.

The report of the city attorney concerning the abatement of a nuisance pertaining to the removal of a shack at the corner of Park avenue and Sapphire was accepted, stating that the new owner had promised to rebuild same according to city specifications.

The report of Secretary George Macleod of the chamber of commerce for $150 for the Navy Day entertainment, and a like sum to finance the participation in the Armistice day parade at Huntington Beach was accepted.

City Engineer Patterson was authorized to expend not more than $100 in painting the foot bridge over Pacific drive at Corona del Mar.

The re-location of the pile marker at the entrance of the harbor which was knocked over some time since by a fishing boat, was referred to the harbor master for a report and estimate.

Grace E. Brooks, secretary of the board of education, requested the use of 250 lineal feet of city property adjacent to the school for recreational purposes. It was granted, City Engineer Patterson to suprvise the improvement and use.

The city will furnish current for lighting the playgrounds for night games. The equipment will be installed by the school board and the lighted areas include basketball, tennis courts and one baseball diamond.

A new insurance line was accepted, subject to investigation of thecity attorney, starting from October 1, and covering all possible uses of autos by city employes.

Mayor Johnston was granted a leave of absence with permission to leave the state. Harry Williamson will act as mayor during his absence.

Electric Service For Plant In Brea

BREA, Oct. 8.—A new 11,000-volt primary electric service for the new machine shop of the Shaffer Tool works is being run today by the Southern California Edison company. New motor driven machinery is beginning to arrive, the present 220-volt service being insufficient for the growing demands of the shop.

The enlarged shop will have approximately 10,000 square feet of floor space, most of which will be occupied by heavy machinery, according to W. D. Shaffer, owner of the plant. An export order for high presure fittings for the Turkish Petroleum company at Iraq is now going through the shops, foreign representatives of oil companies throughout the world being interested witnesses to the shop tests, which require 5000 pounds cold water pressure.

LIBRARY AT LAGUNA BEACH LEADS ALL ORANGE COUNTY IN NUMBER REGISTRATIONS

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 8.—Passing all other county libraries of Orange county in the number of registrations of patrons during September, the Laguna Beach county library totaled 166 as against 136 for the next nearest.

And as an instance of what an asset a library may be, it is related that a family has decided to select Laguna Beach as a winter residence because this community has a library to its liking more satisfactory to this particular family than the library of any other Orange county coast community.

Books taken out in September numbered 2045, a substantial increase over the same month last year.

Attention has been called to the gift of a book given to the library by Prof. John Ward Stimson, B. A., M. A., medaled graduate of the French National Academy of Fine Arts and holder of many positions. Stimson, visiting Laguna, liked the library and made the institution a gift of his work, which has previously sold at $10.

Jack Sharkey was known as "Big Skee" in the navy. . . . His first fight was impromptu and found Jack in the heroic role of avenging a boy selling ice cream after sailors had robbed him of his wares. . . . One of the tough tars took Jack on for a bloody draw. . . . "Biff" Crawley, now promoting fights at Mobile, holds the only decision over Jack while in the navy. . . . FRESHMAN PROSPECT

He was just another freshman prospect. On his feet were shoes that failed to match by three sizes. His sweater was tattered and full of holes. The pants he wore were the old-fashioned style with stays down the front like pleats.

For an hour he had stood in line with other freshmen candidates at Notre Dame when the uniforms were being passed out. While the "prospect" was still five places away from the window, the office ran out of suits.

After that he had gone out in his own street clothes and practiced with the yearlings. After a week he summoned up enough nerve to stop Rockne.

"Mr. Rockne," he said. "I want to play football here and I haven't got a suit. Two of my brothers played for Notre Dame and I want a chance."

Rockne sent the prospect to the freshman coach with a request for a uniform. The result was the makeshift outfit described above.

THE OLD SPIRIT

"I was tickled to death to get that uniform, even though one of the shoes blistered my foot and the other one hung on loosely. I went out and they put me in a tackle on the defense. I took a terrible beating. The foot that had the small shoe swelled up and pained terrifically. But I went out again the next night and pretty soon was put in at defensive halfback.

"Nobody seemed to pay much attention to my playing. When the time came for the freshmen team to take the trip to Culver, 40 miles away, I was left at home. I was almost discouraged enough to quit and nearly made up my mind not to go out again.

"But when it came time for spring practice, I decided to try once more. One day, by luck, I was put into the backfield with Layden, Crowley and Stuhldreher. We happend to click and were kept together from then on."

"THE OLD SPIRIT"

The prospect, as you surely know by now, was Don Miller, one of the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame. Miller is now coaching the backfield at Ohio State.

He went to Notre Dame without the reputation of a star. He had made up his mind to play football, however, and he stuck to it. The path he followed is the same that thousands of other young fellows are starting on this fall—as freshmen, with strange shoes, tattered sweaters and ancient pants.

Whether or not they make the grade depends a great deal upon the way they go after it. Miller went after it the right way. He had what the editors of the college paper call "the old spirit." With any kind of a break, "the old spirit" cashes in. But the prospect has to have it to start with.

And Clyde Milan, former Memphis manager, who is now head coach of the Senators, probably will manage the team. . . . The Senators will train in Chattanooga. . . . Burt Shotton of the Phils doesn't see how the Cubs could lose to the Athletics. . . . He says the only edge the Macks have is in Foxx and Cochrane. . . . Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants, says Root and Carlson ought to stop the Macks dead. . . . Waite Hoyt thinks the A's will overpower the Cubs with hitting. . . . McGraw said the Cubs were very hard to beat at home, and the next week the Giants took three out of four from them.

30-ROUND CARD IS OFFERED AT ARENA TONIGHT

With everything to lose and little to gain, Romeo LeMon, aggressive young Fullerton welterweight, squares off tonight atop a 30-round "all-star" card at Henry T. Foust's Orange County Athletic club.

The Santa Ana boxing promoter is sending LeMon against Joe Robinson, just the kind of a fighter who has been known to cause more than one well laid plan to go astray.

The scheme is for LeMon to make an impressive enough showing to warrant a main event with Joe Contreras or Charley Cobb, but does not take into consideration what will be done if Robinson, about whom little is known here other than that he is willing and anxious to secure appointments with anybody his weight, should dispose of the Fullerton fellow, or make him look bad.

In that case, however, Le Mon probably would be shelved for Hi Gill, the itinerant Santa Anan, or perhaps, even old Hank Gatton, the veteran middleweight, who seems to be improving as time rolls along.

Gill is on the program himself. He is listed to go six rounds with Frankie Burnell, another comparative stranger, who hails from the great Northwest where fighters are usually fighters and not boxers. They say Burnell has no business fighting in the "stocks" but took the local shot because he was unable to convince uptown matchmakers he was worth their attention. Uptown moguls are that way. They want their boxers to get a reputation in the bushes. They said that to "Goldie" Hess, Baby Sal and half a dozen others.

Joe Reese and Curtis Poet, erstwhile intercollegiate champion of Nebraska, are two other welterweights, of which there are eight in all, mixing tonight. Reese looked like a real fighter his last time out and may be back on the trail he gave promise of treading when he first started doing business at the Foust shop. Poet has had one bout on the coast, a winning main event at the Main Street Athletic club in Los Angeles.

Ora Smith vs. Eddie Benson, welters, and Ned Herman vs. Johnny Jordan, 112-pounders, round out the show. Fans who like new faces should like this card.

Lt. Johnson, U. S. Navy, will be at the ringside tonight to make a brief address on the restoration of Old Ironsides, according to word received by Promoter Foust from Frank Moran, chief inspector for the state boxing commission.

TONIGHT'S CARD

Romeo LeMon vs. Joe Robinson, 147 pounds.
Hi Gill vs. Frankie Burnell, 150 pounds.
Joe Reese vs. Curtis Poet, 147 pounds.
Ora Smith vs. Eddie Benson, 150 pounds.
Ned Herman vs. Johnny Jordan, 112 pounds.

M'Kechnie To Lead Braves Next Season

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—On the eve of the world series, Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston National league club, announced the appointment of Bill McKechnie as manager of the Braves for the next four years.

McKechnie, deposed as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals a year ago, returned to St. Louis in midseason, but was unable to reach an agreement with Sam Breadon, the Cards' president, regarding his reappointment for 1929.

SAN FRANCISCO DISINTERESTED IN COAST BALL

BY GEORGE D. CRISSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—With a reputation for being itself, no matter what the occasion, San Francisco refused to become excited today as the Mission Reds and Hollywood Stars took the field for the first game of a special series for the championship of the Pacific Coast league.

Perhaps the dull and uninspiring finish of scheduled games Sunday had something to do with it. No one can deny that one club winning because another club loses takes a part of the sporting edge off any play-off series.

The Mission district probably will patronize the park in fair style but one need not look for new attendance records in San Francisco. The man on the street is talking too much about the world series and football to cause money to flow in for Coast league baseball as it should.

In plain words, San Francisco has lifted its eyebrows and let it go at that. Should the Missions and Stars start zigging and zagging with wins it may become different.

Three games of the seven, if that many are necessary, will be played here. From the viewpoint of interest and revenue it is too bad the series didn't start in Los Angeles. A golden harvest awaits the team in the Southland.

Hollywood and Los Angeles stand as one in hoping for a baseball title. Southland fandom is excited and should the first six games, three here and three in Los Angeles, result in a tie the seventh game might rival the world series attendance if played in the south. Should a seventh game be necessary a flip of a coin will decide the problem of where it shall be played.

In San Francisco odds favored the Missions ever so slightly.

WILLOWICK TO HOLD HANDICAP GOLF TOURNEY

Plans for a fall handicap tournament, the first since the Willowick golf course was opened more than a month ago, were announced today by Mrs. Ralph Noble, manager.

Dates for the competition have not been set but it is probable that first round matches will be conducted before November 1. Medal play probably will prevail.

Qualifying rounds will begin immediately. Those intending to enroll will be asked to file five scorecards in order that their handicaps may be arranged.

Willowick will be host to the Lions club of Garden Grove tomorrow afternoon. Members of the Garden Grove den will roam the West Fifth street course without charge and those who do not own clubs will be furnished them gratis.

Hudkins Greets Fullerton Football Team

FULLERTON, Oct. 8.—A token of friendship to the Fullerton union high school football team was extended by Ace Hudkins, challenger for Mickey Walker's world's middleweight championship, at the Fox Mission theater here last night with Captain Joe Del Giorgio and the other members of the high school team present to receive the token. Hudkins, is training near Fullerton for his fight October 25 at Wrigley field. This was his first public appearance in Fullerton.

Besides Hudkins and the members of the high school football team. Hudkins' two brothers, Clyde and Art, who are also his managers, made their appearances at the local theater.

SETTLING THE POINT IN GOLF

GROUND UNDER REPAIR

When a player drives his ball into a spot which clearly is ground under repair, there is no penalty and the ball may be lifted and dropped.

Where the ball rolls into such a spot and cannot be found after five minutes' search, however, the ball shall be treated as lost, with the usual procedure for a lost ball followed.

Intimate Sketches of World Series Stars

SAMMY HALE

Sammy Hale may figure prominently at third base in the coming series, even though, at the present time, he is not receiving much consideration. . . . Hale has all the physical assets of being an outstanding star but has never reached. . . . He lacks the fighting temperament and has a tendency to fold up when the going is hardest. . . . It may be lack of heart and then again it may simply be something else. . . . Be that as it may, there is a possibility that Dykes, rather than Hale, will start at third for the Mackmen. . . . Hale is the better equipped physically but Dykes has the heart, is a fighter and one of the spark plugs of the Athletics for that reason. . . . Hale is fast and hits the ball hard. . . . He is a line drive hitter rather than the long fly type. . . . Doesn't care for a curve ball but if pitched on the inside hits it a mile to left field. Must be kept away from him to be effective. . . . Has a great arm and is good fielder, but inclined to be rather erratic on ground balls hit directly at him. . . . Once was owned by Detroit, turned loose and later came back to the majors and Connie Mack at a reported price of $40,000 from the Portland club.

MIKE GONZALES

Mike Gonzales, who down Cuba way answers to the surname of Miguel, will probably share the Cub catching with Zach Taylor. . . . Certain Cub pitchers prefer pitching to Gonzales. . . . Since managers always cater to their pitchers in this respect, Gonzales is practically certain of starting a couple of games back of the bat. . . . This is Gonzales' thirteenth year in the majors but he is not at all superstitious about it. . . . Points to the fact that the Cubs won the pennant as ample proof. . . . PASADENA MAY BE STUMBLING BLOCK TO S. A.

Pasadena high school's unexpected 12 to 7 victory over Hollywood last Friday indicates that Coach "Tex" Oliver's Santa Ana pigskin spinners will have their hands full in dealing with the Bulldogs Saturday night at the historic Rose Bowl.

Pasadena football teams have not been overly powerful in recent years but Coach John Thurman, former All-American tackle at the University of Pennsylvania, apparently has constructed a more representative team this year. Up until three years ago Pasadena always was as strong on the grid as any high school in the Southland.

Thurman has the giant Morgan, one of the best shot putters in the Coast Prep league playing fullback for him this year. Morgan weighs close to 200 and is said to be a high class line bucker. Pyle, his quarterback, also is a track star of renown, being a sprinter who may work the Saint ends overtime. Stermer and Cotton, the other backs, are used largely for interference running and pass-catching.

Cabot and Fitch play the Pasadena ends, Captain Gertmenian and White the tackles, McKenna and Ramsey the guards and King is the center. The line is composed of good sized boys but probably will not outweigh Coach Oliver's forwards much.

Curt Youel, star Saint center of last year, scouted Pasadena in the Hollywood game and thinks the Saints can win but that they must not make any mistakes. Pasadena beat Hollywood by following the ball and taking advantage of the breaks. Hollywood tied Long Beach the week before, 0 to 0, indicating that Pasadena this year is as strong if not stronger than the Jackrabbits.

The Saints have a brand new set of red jersies and will wear them at Pasadena, Oliver announced. The sweaters are a brilliant color and should show up well on the lighted gridiron. The numbers are white.

Troy Scout Back From Washington

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Sam Barry, assistant football coach at Southern California, returned to Los Angeles last night and went out to Bovard field today to give the Trojan horde first hand information he gathered last Saturday watching Washington play Oregon.

Coach Howard Jones said he expected to start the same lineup against the Huskies at Seattle this week end as he did against Oregon State.

Macks Still Favorite In Series Bets

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Around the hotel lobbies before the first series game, the furtive-eyed gentry who take wagers and such still were rating the Athletics as 6 to 5 favorites today. Earlier talk of 7 to 5 on the American league champions had been dissipated by a staunch bulwark of Chicago money right here in the Cubs' home town.

Chicagoans, excited over this series to a point seldom reached by baseball fans, are out today to back Joe McCarthy's club with cash, first, and then with all the power of their lungs at Wrigley field this afternoon.

DONS TO MEET CHAMPION J. C. GRIDDERS NEXT

Minus the flashy and fleet-footed Orville Schuchardt, elusive quarterback, members of the Santa Ana junior college football squad settled down earnestly today to prepare for the tough grid contest coming this Saturday when the experienced Pasadena junior college pigskin crew storms the Don enclosure.

Schuchardt, the sparkplug of the Padre eleven, broke a bone in his foot in the game with Phoenix junior college last Saturday and is hobbling around on crutches. The injury cut off a most promising grid career for the collegian, who was in his first year of football. He had been running circles around all opposition.

Pasadena Strong

With 13 lettermen returning from the undefeated state junior college championship team of last year, Pasadena is rated as the squad to beat again this fall. Coach Baker has a wealth of talent including an entire veteran backfield, Captain Jack Rhine, Norm Thompson, "Streak" Strutt and Beaford Haney. Freshmen include Osborne, all-city fullback from Los Angeles, Carroli and Selxas, stars of Alhambra high school's unbeaten prep eleven of 1928, and several others all intent on making the trip to Hawaii with the Pasadenans during the Christmas holidays.

Consequently the Dons have a job cut out for them.

Another standby, "Red" Manderscheid, watched practice from the sidelines yesterday but was expected to be in suit today. Manderscheid was banged up some in the Arizona clash but his bruises are not serious. Otherwise, the Don roster is intact.

Don Tackles Battle

Frank Miles is staging a great battle with Tim Wallace and Ernie Stump for the left tackle job. Wallace, a husky from Anaheim, is a good player and also has an educated toe for place kicking. Captain Herold Hylton has the other tackle job under his wing and will be hard to keep off the all-conference eleven at his present rate of speed.

Jack Dutton probably will be the fourth man in the backfield now that Schuchardt is out of the game. Dutton is a hard smashing player and showed plenty of class in the intersectional affair, making three touchdowns and plenty of yardage. He is also a fine punter, rating equally with Bill Crawford and Joe Warner, the other booters. John Keeler will be another boy who will be hard to keep off the first string. Keeler, a former Saint star, has only been practicing three days, but celebrated his short jaycee grid career by running 80 yards for a touchdown Saturday.

At ends, Hal Dunham, Nevin Hoy and Crawford Nalle are developing rapidly and will be able to give Cook plenty of good relief work for his two stars, George Warmer and George Adams. Warmer is improving daily in his signal calling job and displays rare judgment in the pinches.

Townsend, Carter Top Olympic Card

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Billy Townsend, Vancouver lightweight, and "Wildcat" Carter, negro lightweight of Seattle, will meet here tonight in a scheduled 10-round bout at the Olympic.

Both boys have met before, Carter winning the first bout in Spokane and losing the second, several weeks ago in Seattle by the knockout route. Carter claims that Townsend used loaded gloves in this last fight and as a result of his charges Townsend will not don his gloves until he enters the ring.

In the semi-final Joe Guererro, Mexican lightweight champion, will clash with Danny Woods of Seattle.

BASEBALL FANS IN TICKET LINE FOR 24 HOURS

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. — The weatherman delivered clear skies, a friendly sun and just enough of autumn in the air to make the first day of the world's series almost perfect. Chicago's famous lake breezes were conspicuous by their absence as time for the game neared. Promises that the good weather will continue throughout the series were made at the forecaster's bureau.

BY MERTON T. AKERS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—A pale October sun sent its first faint rays through the lattice of bleacher seats today when the vanguard of the 1929 world series throng stepped gingerly through the gates of Wrigley field to see the opening game between the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Bleary-eyed and shivering were these early arrivals on the scene of the big annual baseball conflict. Some of them had stood or sat or lain in line for as long as 24 hours for the honor of being among the first to settle down for the opening of Chicago's first world series in more than 10 years.

But the long night during which a chill wind from Lake Michigan had penetrated or found openings in their blankets and overcoat coverings seemed to have taken none of the enthusiasm out of the "shirt-seelve" fans.

Sandwich men served them breakfasts of hot dogs and coffee—all save James Masek, who had a loaf of rye bread under his arm. Mazek said he would eat nothing else until the Cubs had been acclaimed world champions.

First in line at the ticket window as the 10,000 bleacher seats were put up for sale was R. R. Taunton of Chicago. He had been waiting since noon yesterday and had just eaten the last of his box of crackers when the ticket window was thrown open.

Poncho Peters and his wife, Odessa, had held one place in the line all night, one sleeping a few ours while the other stood guard. The Peters came out from ensaalaer, N. Y., in the family rd and announced through the issus that they were for the Athtics.

Scores of other people insisted at their names be put down as nong the first to enter, but at at hour in the morning the arpest-eyed reporter is likely to ave somebody out.

The only serious shadow in the tire world series picture for any of the fans was an ominous reat from the office of E. C. llowley, prohibition administrar, to make the series a "milk toast affair." Yellowley said this meant that the series was to be bone dry—that he had called in men from all his outposts in Des Moines, Milwaukee and Detroit to see that the edict was enforced. Word of the threat reached several already insecure speakeasies in the neighborhood of Wrigley field and their proprietors closed up in the face of the greatest demand for liquor that Chicago has experienced since the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Soldier field.

ATHLETICS IN MORNING PRACTICE AT PARK

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The Philadelphia Athletics, who arrived in Chicago Monday afternoon and scorned the offer of the use of their rivals' park for a work-out, made their first appearance on the local National league diamond this morning.

Backed by a loyal little band which was swallowed up in the local enthusiasm over the Cubs, the American league champions went into action bent on winning the world's title both for themselves and Connie Mack. It is some 15 years since the astute, elderly, soft-spoken manager of the A's broke up his great ball club and started in from the bottom. The Mackmen were at the bottom, too, for many disappointing seasons. Their rise to the top has been a fitting climax to Connie's career.

WRIGLEY HAPPIEST MAN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Bill Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, was the happiest man in town today.

"It's the first time in my long career in business that I ever had to send back $1,900,000 in cash orders," said Wrigley, with a broad grin. He extended his ball park to the limit, but the seating capacity of the National league stadium was still only 51,000. Three times that number of fans sent in cash and checks for tickets, and were disappointed.

CUBS, MACKS MET LAST IN 1910 SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Today's game marked the first time the Cubs and Athletics have met in world series play since 1910, when the American league champions triumphed in four games out of five over the declining machine piloted by the "Peerless Leader," Frank Chance. More recently, another Cub machine won the National flag in 1918, while the Athletics have not been up since 1914, the year of their stunning four game defeat at the hands of the Boston Braves.

CY YOUNG, OLD PITCHING ACE, TURNS SCRIBE

BY CY YOUNG
(Only Major League Pitcher to Win 500 Games)

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Meeting a lot of the old timers around the hotel lobbies at this 1929 world series brings back to my mind the first series I played in, back in '92 when the National league was the only circuit and there were 12 clubs in it.

As I sit on this Cub-Athletic contest as a reporter instead of as a pitcher the contest between baseball as it was played in '92 and as it played today makes me wonder.

In '92, the biggest crowd at the series was 6500 people. Now 50,000 go and more if the parks would hold them. Top salaries in those days for stars was $4000 for a season. Now Babe Ruth gets $70,000 and $40,000 and $50,000 salaries aren't unusual.

Boston and Cleveland fought it out for the title in '92 and we (Cleveland didn't win a game. There were three pitchers on each team and we worked every third day whether our arms were sore or not.

Darkness Halts Game

The first game went 10 innings to 0-0 and the umpire had to call it off because it was getting too dark to see the ball—which by the way was "dead" compared to the ones used now. Stivetts was pitching for Boston and I was working for Cleveland. Five men were pegged out at the plate, any one of whom would have made the winning run had the fielder mis-cued.

Boston took the next five games, some of them by big scores. We pitched in pair. I pitched against Stivetts three times that series. Clarkson, Cleveland, pitched against Staley twice. Cuppy, the other Cleveland pitcher, and Kid Nichols, Boston's third hurler, opposed each other in the fifth game. Nichols hadn't had any luck against Cleveland all season but it turned that day and he gained a victory.

Play For Temple Cup

Later in '97 and '98 we played in the Temple cup series against the Baltimore Orioles. They beat us one year and we beat them the next. The prize was a cup offered by President Temple of the Pittsburghs. The first and second clubs of the National league played for the title.

We got a little money those years, about $500 apiece. This year the Cubs and Athletics will get $5000 or more apiece for the series—a rather wide margin for 30 years.

On the whole, the National league being my first love, I lean toward the Cubs to win the series but at the same time I know through long friendship with Connie Mack that he'll not be caught napping and acts quickly and unexpectedly.

As I see it the series hinges on whether Grove and Walberg can get by the Cubs' murderers' row. I doubt it but at that Connie probably has some tricks up his sleeve. The Cubs have been making short work of lefthanders this year but on the other hand Grove and Walberg are better southpaws than anything the National league has to offer.

LAUNDERING BLOUSES

If your blouses are solid color that does not run, roll them in bath towels as soon as you rinse and iron before they are thoroughly dried. If there is a chance that the color will run, wash quickly, rinse in cold water, stuff full of tissue paper and hang on a hanger.

URGES COUNTY PURCHASE LAND AT IRVINE PARK

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 8.—The suggestion that 160 acres be added to Irvine park by the county was made by Tom Talbert, former supervisor, at yesterday's meeting of the chamber of commerce. He said that the county should vote bonds for this project and also vote bonds for the purchase of a tract of land east of Huntington Beach for state park purposes.

The chief topic was the proposed state park for Orange county. Talbert brought out the point that after Orange county raises her half of the original purchase price of the land, she is through. The state pays the other half, develops the raw land into a beautiful park and pays for the maintenance, he said.

The $6,000,000 voted by the people of the state at the last election was to provide for state parks and the preservation of the redwood forests, and Orange county has the opportunity to get her share of the benefit from this fund, Talbert declared. The beach frontage is rapidly being bought up by private interests, and being fenced off from the public, and unless some action is taken soon there will be no free beach for the people to enjoy, Talbert said.

Mr. Rutledge of Raitt's dairy, Santa Ana, gave an interesting review of the dairy business.

President A. H. Dixon on behalf of the chamber of commerce welcomed the Rev. J. H. Barnhart, who was reappointed to his pastorate of the Methodist church by the conference held in Long Beach last week.

A report from the committee which is conducting a membership campaign showed a gain of 45 new members, with only eight former members with their dues unpaid.

Walter McMillan, secretary for the Armistice day celebration, made a short talk. He said the plans for the parade and general celebration are developing satisfactorily and that he was meeting with wonderful co-operation and enthusiasm throughout the county. The auto stickers advertising the celebration are ready and may be obtained by calling at the headquarters at 106 Main street.

Announcement was made of the meeting of the Orange County Coast association in Huntington Beach the evening of October 15 and the Associated Chambers of Commerce October 29.

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 8.—Tom Guderian has been elected commander of the San Clemente American Legion post. He succeeds Virgil Westbrook, who was elected historian of the organization at the election. Others named are C. W. Wells, first vice commander; W. Dee Wolfe, second vice commander; adjutant-finance officer, V. D. Bailey; chaplain, E. H. Moore and sergeant-at-arms, Jack Neiderstadt.

Officers will be installed at the installation ceremonies for the month.

PARK PROJECT IS DISCUSSED IN MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Oct. 8.—Midway City residents are interested in the proposal that a park be established here. John Harper, local subdivider, has offered a five-acre tract, it is understood. Residents may ask the county for assistance in establishing the park.

A proposal that a new sewer system be established here is looked upon with favor at the present time, it is said, owing to the cost, estimated at $80,000. At the last session of the chamber of commerce, the suggestion was made that a district including Westminster, New Westminster, Midway City, Smeltzer, Oceanview, Wintersburg and Talbert be established. The subject was tabled for future investigation.

Discussion of the school situation was held, with Prof. James Monroe of Westminster speaking on the subject. At present Midway City is in the Westminster district. Some residents have suggested that a separate district be formed.

OBLIGING MINISTER

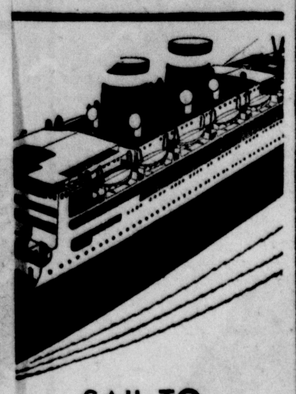

SEAFORD, Del., Oct. 8.—When James Wright and Dorothy Dix, G. W. Dykes and Phirley C. Brown arrived at St. John's M. E. church here for a double wedding, Rev. E. L. Windsor drove the couples to the state line, parked his car across it, and with a couple on the Maryland side and one on the Delaware side he stood with one foot on each side and performed the ceremony.

Luxembourger Urges Fire Caution Throughout Year

READINGS AND MUSIC FEATURE B. P. W. SESSION

Music and readings yesterday gave an enjoyable variety to the program at the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club, in St. Ann's Inn. The program was presented by members of the Wrycende Maegdenu club, younger business women in which the older club takes a deep interest. The talented girls were introduced by Miss Lorraine French, chairman of the October committee, and were the Misses Dorothy Lutz, Adele Lutz, Mabel Pruitt, Ruth Campbell and Betty Burnham.

Miss Dorothy Lutz opened the program with a beautifully played violin solo, "Romance in A," by Lieurance, with Miss Adele Lutz at the piano. Miss Pruitt followed with a group of her clever musical readings, for which Miss Burnham furnished the piano accompaniment. The readings were "Radiance," "Dame Fashion" and "He Met Her on the Stairs." Two solos, charmingly sung by Miss Campbell, with Miss Burnham as accompanist, were "Rose in the Bud," by Faster, and "My Love," by Gartlan.

In her announcements of coming events, the president, Mrs. N. E. Mayhill, called special attention to the county reciprocity party, at which the Santa Ana club will entertain on Wednesday night, November 6, and named Miss Lee Patton, Mrs. Vera Backus, Miss Alice Wasser and Miss Lula Ott to augment the committee composed of Mrs. Laura Murray, chairman; Miss Mabel Larrick, Mrs. Rae House and Eleanor Elliott.

Mrs. Alice Cole, of the Orange club, a former Santa Ana member, was present with her small daughter, Jeanne, and issued an invitation to the clubwomen to attend a card party to be given in the Orange Women's clubhouse Monday night, October 14.

Mrs. Alice Maloney presented two interesting guests, Miss Anna Woodall, past vice president of the National federation, and Mrs. Christine Leonard, of the Berkeley club. Miss Woodall gave a brief but interesting talk on the advantages of affiliation with the national organization.

GOVERNOR STARS AT BASEBALL

If Connie Mack, Joe McCarthy or any other big league manager needs a good pitcher and a sure .300 hitter, Governor Huey P. Long, 36-year-old chief executive of Louisiana, might fill the bill. The governor, who held some reputation as a ball player when a boy, says he can hit .300 "in any man's league." And he does with a team known as the Tin-Cans, made up of ex-ball players, in New Orleans. He plays with them every Sunday. Below, Long is shown (at left) as he started towards first after dropping a bunt; at right, he seems to have pretty good form on the mound.

WALNUTS WILL BRING GROWERS $16,000,000

Walnut growers of the state will reap financial returns of $16,000,000 for the 1929 crop, according to estimates made public by Carlyle Thorpe, general manager of the California Walnut Growers' association.

The manager estimates that the 68,000,000 pound crop will produce $14,000,000 with further income of $1,700,000 from by-products.

The manager has revealed that the crop this year is less than that of 1927 but larger than that of 1928, the production for last year being 42,000,000 pounds, as compared with the estimated crop of 68,000,000 pounds for this year.

Pointing out that the co-operative organization controls the products of 85 per cent of the growers in the state, Carlyle has expressed confidence that the crop can be sold at the prices set by the central body Saturday night. Establishment by the association of standards of uniformity and a virtual guarantee that nuts offered are what they are represented to be as to quality, are factors that will cause consumers to purchase the California product in preference to foreign nuts, in the opinion of the manager.

PREVENT INFECTION

It is a good plan to have a small magnifying glass, such as an inexpensive linen tester, handy on the bathroom shelf to make sure the children's scratches, cuts and other minor wounds are perfectly clear of extraneous material. This tester will discover tiny bits of dirt, hair or fuzz that the naked eye can never see. Removed, the wound becomes simply a matter of healing. Many bad cases of infection might have been prevented by just such a simple device.

WINBIGLER SELLS AMBULANCE TO CITY FOR $1 AND THEN LEASES IT FOR $1 PER YEAR

Removal by city authorities of two dips on East First street, between the Santa Fe tracks and Lyon street, was the occasion for the Tustin Chamber of Commerce writing the city council a letter of appreciation, it was learned last night.

The communication of thanks was read at the meeting of the council, last night.

In order that its ambulance may be operated according to a new law, the Winbigler Funeral home sold its ambulance to the city of Santa Ana for $1 and leased the equipment from the city for the sum of $1 a year.

It was pointed out by Winbigler that the new law prohibits the use of the red light and siren on privately owned vehicles. Under the transaction with the city, the ambulance is a city machine and will be registered as such, with the right to carry a red light and a siren.

A request from the Orange County Tuberculosis association for financial aid in maintaining the Children's Health camp, in Santiago canyon, was taken under advisement.

Application for permission to conduct religious meetings on Eighth street, between Fairlawn and Artesia, was referred to the chief of police.

The Gilbert-Weston-Stearns company was given permission to hang electric signs at 407 and 412-1-2 South Main street.

SUNSET BEACH, Oct. 8. — Camp fires on the beach and parking on Pacific avenue were hit in resolutions passed by the Sunset Beach chamber of commerce Saturday night. The resolutions will be sent to the county board of supervisors.

Hundreds of campers are using the beach nightly and in many cases their fires are but 10 feet from the homes of residents, it was declared.

Pacific avenue is but 10 feet wide and there is not sufficient room for parked cars, it was declared.

C. M. Earll and H. A. Russel are president and secretary, respectively, of the chamber.

STRONG CAST IN FIRST PLAY OF 1929 SEASON

"There is no question but that 'Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire' is the most amusing of all of James M. Barrie's plays," today declared Ernest Crozier Phillips, who is returning to the activities of director of the Santa Ana Community Players for their opening production of the 1929-30 season, the famous Barrie comedy, to be given October 17, 18 and 19 in the Spurgeon theater.

Continuing his discussion of the subtle humor of the play, the director pointed out that its plot and theme dealt with adolescents and that nothing is more entertaining than adolescents who take themselves seriously—as those in "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire" all do. "We have a marvelous group of young people in the cast," Phillips continued. "As familiar with stage technique as the older members of the cast are, they will be hard pressed in defending their laurels against these youthful Thespians."

The latter Players include three young girls and a youth, Miss Clara Kate Owens, Miss Florence Brownridge, Miss Agnes McKinstry and Duncan Harnois, and those who have seen any of the nightly rehearsals in Lawrence hall have expressed their amazement that such youthful players should have such finesse in presenting comedy—that most difficult of all dramatic expressions.

Miss Owens, who was seen to such advantage in "Seventh Heaven," returns to the Players as "Amy Gray." Miss McKinstry's first appearance with the association was as the gay little flapper in "White Collars," a role far different from that of the maid, "Richardson," which she will essay in the forthcoming production. Miss Brownridge and Duncan Harnois will have their first Community Play roles, but have taken part in school dramatics so are no strangers to the stage.

As for the adult members of the cast—Mona Summers Smith, in the title role, R. R. Miller and Alex Garroway—all have had extensive stage experience, so that the director feels that he has one of the best casts possible for the presentation of the opening play. The cast members also have expressed their satisfaction to be working under one who has so many successes to his credit, for Phillips not only was the first director for the association, but was the only one for several seasons until the press of his work as head of the dramatics department of high school and junior college forced him to resign as Community Players' director.

Rehearsals for "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire" will be transferred to the theater tomorrow night and will be held there nightly until the opening, with Wednesday night of next week scheduled for dress rehearsal. In the meantime, members of the organization, under Frank Lansdown, chairman, are staking a last minute campaign for sustaining membership and ticket selling in order to assure a working fund of sufficient size to continue the season's activities.

A long-handled small brush and hooded dustpan set is a good buy for the woman who hates to stoop over. In color, this set makes an attractive bit of fireside equipment and saves much time by being so handy.

IL DUCE'S DUO OF SONS

Dictators of the future, perhaps, are these two sons of Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy. Bruno particularly, at the left, closely resembles his iron-jawed father. That's Vittorio, the younger, beside him. Both are wearing the Fascist black shirts as they take a shot at the cameraman—with a camera.

STIMULATION OF TRADE IN LOCAL PRODUCTS IS AIM OF BUSINESS EXPERT'S SURVEY

Santa Ana manufacturers and retail and wholesale merchants are to be visited by Harold W. Wright, domestic trade commission for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who is making a comprehensive survey in Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside and Los Angeles counties to stimulate local purchases of products manufactured in the districts visited.

Wright arrived here today and will make his headquarters at St. Ann's Inn.

Wright's visit is in line with a campaign started today by the Los Angeles chamber with the object of turning the $1,500,000,000 used annually in the four counties for retail purchases into channels profitable to local manufacturers.

He will make a special study of the needs of the various business houses in order that local manufacturers may better cater to their needs and will be prepared to make recommendations to merchants regarding additions to their stocks.

"The four counties, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Los Angeles, have over 2,800,000 residents, or one-fourth of the population of the entire 11 western states," said Wright. "Their average income is much higher than that of the rest of the west and one of the largest in the country with an annual manufactured output well over $1,000,000,000.

Increase of this output is assured if customers in retail stores request locally manufactured articles, with resulting increases in payrolls and improved economic conditions generally.

During his stay here, Wright will be available for talks before service clubs interested in his campaign.

SAVING CURTAINS

If you make the top and bottom hems of glass curtains the same width, you can turn them upside down every other time you hang them after laundering and thus lengthen their lives tremendously for the portion that blows against the screen is the part that wears out.

CHIEF ASSISTS IN OBSERVANCE OF WEEK HERE

"It would be to our advantage as a community and a splendid thing if we would practice fire prevention in Santa Ana every week in the year instead of just the one," declared Fire Chief John Luxembourger this morning. "Citizens in this city have, however, shown a fine spirit of co-operation with the department and the Fire Prevention week committee for the last several years, as our fire decords show."

In co-operating with the fire prevention week committee, under the direction of John Henderson, Chief Luxembourger and his competent assistants have been able to give students of the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth grades informative helps on the subjects of their essay contest.

The fire chief did not anticipate having fire drills in the schools this week because of the interest that has been manifested in the essay contest. The department will, however, conduct such fire drills every six weeks, after October 12, and children will be timed in order to discover the best and most rapid methods of emptying a building.

Concerning fire loss, the chief said:

"Although the national fire loss is three times as great today as it was at the beginning of the twentieth century the blame cannot be traced to lack of development and progress in the art of fire fighting. The methods employed by the firemen of 30 years ago were spectacular, but inefficient. Today fire fighting is becoming almost an exact science. In fact, firemen now are given short courses every year in a number of the leading state universities.

"These courses have been instigated largely through the efforts of the fire service extension committee of the National Fire Waste council, which is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"Information gathered by a committee on fire casualty statistics shows that among the hazards causing life loss several predominate. Among the more important causes are the use of kerosene in kindling or quickening a fire, smoking in bed, playing with matches and the ignition of clothes from bonfires and brush fires. Two-thirds of all deaths from fire occur in dwellings."

The Misses Mavia Diehl and Rebecca Budrow, charming members of Santa Ana's younger set, were hostesses Saturday afternoon at a delightfully appointed bridge tea given in the lounge at the Ebell club.

The lounge was even lovelier than usual for the occasion as quantities of colorful autumn flowers had been arranged there. The same bright colors were reflected in bridge tallies and appointments for the tea which followed the merry games.

The attractive prizes were won by Miss Barbara Wescott, Miss Mary Jane Owens, Miss Ann Tarver.

Assisting Miss Diehl and Miss Budrow during the afternoon were Miss Mary Louise Budrow, Miss Marguerite Lentz, Miss Dorothy Diehl and Miss Ethel West.

Mrs. Jean Lilliano Is Guest of Honor at Reception

Expressing their approval of Ebell's newest group, the Music, Art and Drama section, members of the society gathered at the clubhouse last night as guests of the section at a reception given in honor of Mrs. Jean Lilliano, formerly Ada May Sharpless.

Mrs. Holmes Bishop, leader of the section, introduced Mrs. Lilliano as well as several other artists who took part in the evening's program and she stated that it was very appropriate that the first meeting should honor one of Santa Ana's own daughters who has won distinction as a sculptor both in this country and abroad.

Mrs. Bishop continued with a brief outline of plans that the section expects to carry out during the coming year which will include the meeting each month which is to be devoted to a special phase of art, thus making it possible to present a large variety of programs.

Presents Piano Numbers

Ione Tunison Peek, one of the city's most talented pianists, who has studied in France under internationally known musicians, presented three French selections as a special compliment to Mrs. Lilliano whose home has been in Paris for a number of years. The first was "Pavanne" by Ravel and its queer minor melody was a vivid contrast to the sprightly "Poissons d'Or" by Debussy which followed. As an encore Mrs. Peek offered a lovely Debussy valse, "La plus que lente."

Miss Beulah May of this city, one of America's best known poets, was present for last night's gathering and one of her latest poems, "The Workman," that was inspired by an ancient frieze was read by Mrs. Charles C. Brisco.

Mrs. Lilliano was then introduced and she gave a charming little talk in which she outlined her studies and told of taking up sculpture exclusively. She told of the methods followed by sculptors in their work and demonstrated with a plaster cast and a bronze bust of her father which she made last year when Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sharpless visited her and her husband in Paris.

Songs Delightful

Munro Sharpless who has returned to Santa Ana recently from New York where he has been appearing in concert work, presented Russell's "Vale" which was followed by a quaint Italian song, "A Vucchella" with words by d'Anunzio and music by Tosti. He responded to an encore with "Trees" by Rasbach, the words of which were written by Joyce Kilmer.

Concluding the evening's program, Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips presented Anatole France's clever farce, "The Man With a Dumb Wife," which is the tale of a husband who bemoans the fact that his wife cannot speak, who arranges an operation whereby her speech is restored, and who eventually accepts deafness as the only escape from her incessant chatter.

Colorful Flowers

Quantities of colorful dahlias and zinnias were arranged about the peacock room and on the stage by the decorating committee which included Mrs. John Wehrly, Mrs. J. L. Clark, Mrs T. A. Winbigler, and Mrs. John Wehrly jr.

During the delightful social hour which followed the program when friends of Mrs. Lilliano were privileged to greet her and renew their acquaintance with her, the refreshment committee, Mrs. Brisco, Mrs. C. F. Crose and Miss Preble Drake served dainty cakes and punch. Two charming Ebell daughters, Miss Mary Tuthill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Tuthill, and Miss Betty Smedley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smedley, presided at the punch bowl.

Members of the hostess committee included Mrs. Holmes Bishop who also arranged the program, Mrs. C. E. Brisco, Mrs. Victor Montgomery and Mrs. G. J. Daley.

Plans Completed for Autumn Flower Show

Some confusion seems to exist in the minds of the public regarding the plans of Ebell's Garden section in presenting the annual Fall Flower show which opens its two-days' session in the clubhouse Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Questions regarding the price of admission to the event, are asked the chairman, Mrs. F. P. Jayne, and many seem to think that in order to visit the exhibits and see the display, it will be necessary to attend the dinner and the evening picture, according to Mrs. W. L. Salisbury.

"This is a mistake," today declared Mrs. Salisbury. "The same small admission price that has always prevailed at the flower shows, will give our friends the privilege of seeing the floral display. The dinner Thursday evening with serving to begin at 5 o'clock, is to be a separate feature and while we hope all of our Ebell friends will come and enjoy the home-cooked foods and the friendly hospitality, yet it is entirely optional with them. The price has been set as low as we could make it for the menu that is to be served.

"The same thing applies to the evening entertainment in the auditorium, where a small admission fee will bo asked those who wish to hear the illustrated lecture on flowers from all over the world."

Mrs. Salisbury spoke appreciatively of the response the section was having from Ebell members and friends, who have promised to send choice flowers for the exhibit, and urged everyone who had flowers, to communicate with her or Mrs. Jayne, and some member of the section would gladly call for them. For it is hoped to make this one of the most brilliant of any of the series of displays, and many blossoms that might not be entered for judging, would be very acceptable for display purposes.

Mrs. W. E. Watkins, Mrs. J. T. Wilson and Mrs. Cood Adams will form the awards committee, and judging of the flowers will be completed in advance of the opening of the doors to the public at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Friday's features will include a luncheon at noon which the general public is asked to patronize as well as the Thursday evening dinner,, and the luncheon also will offer a home-prepared menu by Ebell's matchless cooks.

The exchanging of engagement rings between maid and man is a pretty bit of sentiment that must appeal to all engaged couples. Unlike the radiant beauty of the tell-tale diamond, the signet ring he wears, to all the world may seem but just a signet, while to they two it stands a living symbol of their plighted troth.

The WOMAN'S DAY

"Have you noticed," an observing young man asked me, "how the girls don't seem quite able to manage these new-fangled dresses?"

What prompted the question was the sight of an athletic type of girl wearing a new high-waisted, long-skirted dress, trying to get out of a taxicab, and getting all involved in her new hemline.

Some good longshoreman English that escaped her rouged lips at this time indicated she herself was not altogether pleased with the management.

But give her time. Do you remember how self-conscious women seemed when they first adopted the very short skirts—how leg conscious they were and how they tried to cover their knees when they sat down? Then, eventually, women forgot all about it and wore them with the casualness that they required.

Fashion has a way of saying "be feminine" or "be tailored" or be something else, quite as unconcernedly as if styles were something that came and went like seasons instead of arbitrary mandates that required a psychological adjustment.

If feminine styles really are to be successful—and certainly they are going to be if the designers have anything to say about it—women will have to be more feminine in their ways. They are going to be obliged to cultivate grace, and they may even have to revert again to manners, in order to create the needed illusions. You can't strut and stride in a frock that was cut for gliding and grooming unless you want to look like a caricature.

There is always a great deal of talking about a change in style before it comes, but when it actually arrives, it comes with a bang. A month ago, in New York, people were talking long skirts—and wearing short ones. Today the girls in the shops have taken out their hems and pushed up their belts. That means the style is launched.

ABOUT EDUCATION

Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton university, summed up the ideals of modern education very aptly in his address to the 2000 undergraduates at their first chapel meeting.

He began by quoting the Oxford man who defined education as "what remains behind when you have forgotten all you have learned" and then elaborate thus on what should be left behind.

"A mind, a tempered and skilled instrument of realizing the processes of the will, a depository of ideas gained from study, contemplation and experience, a creative power to make possible the things regarded as impossible surmounting obstacles that are regarded as insurmountable, a creating power, a discerning faculty separating the essentials from the unessentials in a mass of confused and chaotic facts, penetrating to the heart of a subject in any naw and unfamiliar situation, a mind that is the enemy of sophistries of loose thinking and of hasty and ungrounded generalizations."

We are so apt to think of education as something acquired, rather than created, something that you get from college, in the laboratory out of books, or from travel instead of the sum total of everything you feel and experience as well as absorb.

A boy could go to college four years and be completely uneducated, according to Dr. Hibben, or he could be an educated man without ever having entered an institution of learning—according to his own reaction to the experiences that come to him.

Incidentally, the Doctor says nothing of the financial value of such an education—or how much it is worth in dollars and cents.

However, it does sound more like the mental equipment of a philosopher than of a millionaire.

WEST COAST MOVIE IS STORY OF YOUTH

Youth—its perils and triumphs—provides the plot for "Fast Life," First National-Vitaphone production, now playing in the Fox-West Coast theater here.

A tensely thrilling play on the stage, "Fast Life" is a sensation as a movietone feature. It opens with a murder in a love nest and the problem of a man, who, to save the life of his friend, must ruin the chances he has with the girl he loves.

The three leading parts are played by Douglas Fairbanks jr., Loretta Young and Chester Morris.

"Fast Life" closes its engagement in the Fox-West Coast theater tomorrow night.

"Social Sinners," and all-talking comedy; Van and Schenck, in a movietone skit, and a Fox Movietone newsreel complete the bill.

Dix, In 'Redskin,' Now At West End

The perfect argument in favor of a visit to the southwest is advanced in Richard Dix' latest starring picture for Paramount, "Redskin." The scenic beauties of the region are shown in this film in all the splendor of their variegated colorings. All the exterior sequences were made on the Indian reservations of the region.

"Redskin," which the West End theater has booked for a three-day showing, starting today, makes motion picture history. It is the first time that a feature film, done in color, utilized the natural backgrounds of the Southland.

CIRCUS BACKGROUND OF BROADWAY FILM

A team of four trapeze artists, whose daring makes it the big number in a huge circus, is the basis of the picture-story, "Four Devils," now playing in the Fox-Broadway theater.

The performers court death daily, they make danger their best friend, and yet, when the act is not on, their lives are much the same as those of other people. Their loves, their disappointments and their private achievements go to make the picture an outstanding one.

Janet Gaynor has the leading role. She is one of the "Four Devils." The other three are Charles Morton, Barry Norton and Nancy Drexel. Mary Duncan also has a prominent part in the play as a vamp.

"Four Devils" has a real plot and its startling climax, when Janet saves the man she loves, one of the "Four Devils," from death and from Mary Duncan, the vamp, gives the picture an unusual ending.

"Bughouse College Days," an Aesop's Fable with sound and a Fox Movietone newsreel complete the bill.

The right way to redye Finest Silks

TEXTILE manufacturers always use special dyes for silk or wool. They know that is the only way to secure the most perfect results. The makers of Diamond Dyes are the first to enable home users to follow this plan.

Next time you want to dye some of your more valuable articles of pure silk or wool, try the special Diamond Dyes in the blue package. They will give these materials clearer, more brilliant colors, with greater depth and permanence than any "all purpose" dye.

These special Diamond Dyes are just as easy to use as ordinary dyes. Like the white package Diamond Dyes, they contain the highest quality anilines money can buy. That's what makes them go on so smoothly and evenly, without spotting or streaking. That's the secret of their brilliance; their resistance to sunlight, wear, and washing.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the highest quality dye prepared for general use. It will dye, or tint, silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon (artificial silk), or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye for silk or wool only—with it you can dye your valuable articles of pure silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk or wool. Your dealer has both packages.

Are Auto Drivers Wild?
Sometimes I Think They Are BUT Sometimes I Think They Aren't
By Velva G. Darling

The total number of American lives lost in the World War was 118. Yet in the eight years following the war, 1919 to 1926, the mber of persons killed by automobiles on the highways of America s 137,017. If WAR is massacre, WHAT is automobile driving? The al number of wounded in the World War, who did not die, was 1,059. A terrible fuss was made by pacifists when these figures came t—and rightly. It IS horrible. But nobody makes any fuss about 3,500,000 people injured by automobiles since the Armistice was signed! What is that tale of the Juggernaut in heathen India—the great-wheeled cart that rolled periodically down the streets and before which humans prostrated themselves to be crushed to death as sacrifice? What in the world is the matter with the drivers of automobiles? Can't they SEE? Or are pedestrians made up wholly of the FEEBLE MINDED?

And yet, looking down from an airplane on the criss-cross of busy highways surrounding any city in America, it is a source of constant amazement that there isn't a continual round of smash-ups taking place all day long! Those little bugs of automobiles dashing along at 40 miles an hour, hopping out to pass each other and barely scooting round onto their own side of the highway in time to avoid collision ith the next onrushing automobile. It is miraculous—when you watch from the sky—the way auto drivers AVOID immediate annihilation! ot so awfully long ago an automobile attaining a speed of 15 miles n hour was simply breaking all speed records! Heaven knew what ould happen to the country if many MORE of these speeding "gas agons" were produced in it! Signs were put up on certain streets equesting automobiles to use some other road for their traveling as ey would disrupt the town's traffic (composed of horses and bicycles) permitted to go down the main streets. Then the speed rose to 20 iles an hour, and I can remember when to go 25 simply was the EIGHT of THRILL! The auto driver then was a person of immense esponsibility who took himself and his gear shifting very seriously. oday at a speed of twice that, the average auto driver not only acually avoids death, but every minute he is on the road risks a dozen eaths a minute—which he ADROITLY EVADES.

Auto drivers wild? Why, they are the most highly trained, keenly lert, and skilful pilots the world has ever produced, and we are roducing them by the thousands. And yet, why do we make so much uss about WAR being THE great destroyer of life—when automobiles ill DOUBLE the amount?

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF. © 1929, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

For quite a while the Tinies sailed and then wee Clowny loudly hailed the rest and said, "Let's stop some place and find a bite to eat. I'm just as hungry as can be and food would taste real good to me. Most anything that we can find will be a welcome treat."

"All right," said Scouty. "That sounds fair, but while we're way up in the air, let's all gaze down and see if we can find a place to land. If we are tossed 'round by the breeze, we may come down right in some trees. I'd rather reach the level ground where we can safely stand."

And then a smile spread on his face. Said he, "I see a nice smooth place. It's in the center of a bunch of funny looking trees. I'm certain now it will be worth our while to settle down to earth. If we are very careful, we can all slip down with ease."

And so they landed safe and sound. As soon as they were on the ground, wee Coppy cried, "Oh, look! I see some berries. This is luck! They're nice and red. Oh, what a treat! We'll gather all that we can eat. The branches are all thorny. Let's be careful we're not stuck."

They soon had gathered all they could. "Oh, my," said Carpy, "These are good." They shortly finished with their meal. The next thing that they knew some little lads ran into sight. At first it gave the bunch a fright. One of the little lads exclaimed, "We're Weeones! Who are you?"

"We're Tinymites," one Tiny cried. "Come on, how would you like to ride in one of our fine wooden shoes. Just try it, one by one." So one small Weeone said, "You bet! Into the shoe I'll gladly get. I'll put a little sail up and 'twill be a heap of fun."

(Scouty acts as life guard in the next story.)

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links, the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example: To go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.
3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

FIRST CARLOAD SHIPPED BY S. A. WALNUT HOUSE

The Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers' association today made its first carload shipment of this season's crop direct from the packing house to the east, the carload being consigned to New York.

Five hundred sacks were contained in the car and were shipped on orders. The packing house previously had sent out by truck approximately 300 sacks to fill in carload orders for immediate delivery, the trucking being to the plant of the California Walnut Growers' association, in Los Angeles.

The management of the Santa Ana house today made an appeal to growers not to deliver nuts for two or three days, if they could delay without inconvenience to themselves.

It was announced that the product has been coming in so fast that the facilities of the plant have become overtaxed for the present. It was explained that the management would attempt to take care of nuts delivered by growers who do not have storage facilities at home.

It is estimated that groves of growers associated with the association will produce 2500 tons this season.

MEXICAN ARRAIGNED IN STATUTORY CASE

Pascual Zuniga, Santa Ana Mexican, was arraigned in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl.

His preliminary examination was set for 10 a. m., October 15, and bail of $500 was demanded, which he did not make.

According to the complaint, Zuniga is accused of enticing a 15-year-old girl away from her home here and taking her to Arlington, where he has been living with her.

The complaining witness in the case is the girl's mother.

SAYS FUMES FROM H. B. PLANT HEALTHY

That the fumes from the asphalt plant near Huntington Beach, of which property owners have complained to the board of supervisors, are positively healthy, was declared today before the board by M. M. McCallem, owner of the plant.

McCallem declared that he could produce a doctor's statement that the fumes were healthy. He was so sure of this, he said, that he would be willing to buy the drinks for the board if he failed to prove it

"Of course I really can't buy the drinks," McCallem supplemented, "But it's a fact."

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, was appealed to regarding the health producing property of asphalt fumes and stated that he was skeptical about it.

Property owners and residents in the vicinity of the plant stated that the fumes prevented sleep at night and induced headaches.

McCallem stated that he had done everything possible in 14 days to relieve the situation and that he was ready to co-operate in any way he could to keep the fumes where they belonged. It is expected that the board would make a decision regarding the matter late today.

Police News

Two automobiles were reported stolen from Santa Ana streets yesterday and neither had been found at a late hour today. John D. Hickey, of route No. 1, Orange, reported the theft of his machine late yesterday and T. R. McMichael, of El Monte, reported his car taken last night from near the Santa Fe railroad station.

Five persons were fined and one discharged in police court yesterday on liquor charges. The man freed was A. L. Gray, arrested Sunday, who was found not guilty of a drung charge. COURT ACTION ANTICIPATED IN TAX ARGUMENT

Probability that court action will be resorted to in an attempt to adjudicate differences between Orange county and the Associated Oil company, regarding a desired tax refund, was seen today when District Attorney Z. B. West jr., in a letter to the board of supervisors, suggested that perhaps the safest method of handling the matter would be to reject the request and force the company to start court action.

The company asked a refund because of an asserted mistake in making its report to the county assessor, in which it placed its production 860,000 barrels too high. The board of supervisors rejected the request on the ground that there was a possibility of it being made liable by granting it.

West's letter stated that, although he was of the opinion that, in equity, a refund should be made, nevertheless there was a possibility of recovery against the board members personally if they granted the request. If the matter is taken to court and the court orders the refund made, the possibility of the board or its members being liable would be eliminated, West's letter explained.

400 AT BEACH CITY BANQUET FOR TEACHERS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 8.—The largest number of guests ever assembled at a banquet in Huntington Beach cheered the teachers and members of the school boards of high school and elementary school at the dinner held last night in the city auditorium. Over 400 guests were present.

M. G. Jones, superintendent of the high school, and C. B. Baldwin, superintendent of the elementary school, called the roll of men and women teachers of both schools and as the faculty members rose to their feet the audience cheered lustily and rattled tin tamborines placed at each plate as souvenirs of the Mexican dinner.

Members of the volunteer fire department, dressed in Mexican costumes, served as waiters. To be a volunteer fireman at Huntington Beach, it is necessary to have served "over there" during the World war. Once in a while in the midst of the gaiety a fireman would give the old army yell. Hundreds of the guests, and all the school teachers wore Mexican costumes and the bright colors of the fancy costumes added to the charm of the occasion.

Speakers representing the various service clubs of the city pledged loyalty to the community to the teachers who have charge of the 1700 students in Huntington Beach schools. Names of the members of the school trustees were called and the board members rose and "took their bow."

The menu for the banquet included tamales, chili beans and meat cooked in Spanish style, salad, coffee, pie, butter and rolls.

Following the menu a program of addresses and musical numbers and comedy stunts was staged. The speakers included Mrs. Sylvia Conrad, president of the Woman's club, who recited a story in which the names of all teachers were used in a play of puns cleverly conceived. A. H. Dixon, president of the chamber of commerce, welcomed the teachers. Mrs. Margaret Colvin, president of the P.-T. A., gave the opening address and introduced the speakers. The Rev. John M. Barnhart, pastor of the Methodist church, asked the blessing. J. K. Sargent, chief of the fire department, made a short address pledging the support of the department and the American Legion to the teachers. Walter McMillan made the announcement of the Armistice day program for November 11.

The stage skits included a bull fight. Roy F. Patrick was chased by the bull. D. E. Burry killed the fierce animal. Will Ebert was the bull.

Spanish songs and Spanish music and some pretty tableaux were offered by Mr and Mrs. R. G. Miller. Miss Sarah Turner and Miss Clare Whitfield, Mrs. Rhodes, Roy K. Smith, Charles Overbury, Will Gallienne. Instrumental musicians were Ralph Turner, Mrs Clyde Knisley, C. L. Uhlman, Billy James, Mr Emanuel, D. E. Burry, bullfighter, gave a burlesque Spanish dance

Some of the guests wore expensive Spanish costumes and special shawls. W. H. Jones and Gail Bergey wore special had made Mexican shawls of great value and beauty.

Breakfast Club's Program Thursday To Be 'Different'

A program, which is being widely advertised among the members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club as "a real treat," "variety" and "quite different," has been arranged for next Thursday morning by the program committee, composed of Jess Elliott, Edward French and Capt. Henry Meehan.

The headliners of the program as listed in a notice mailed to club members, are the Honorable Thomas McFadden, Anaheim attorney; Miss Kate McCullah, director of the Orange County School of Fine Arts; and "Texas" Hastings, described as the "cowboy artist" and a "wild Indian in action." McFadden is scheduled as the principal speaker, with "The Dark Ages of Africa" as his subject, and is to have as a special bodyguard J. S. Bouldin, Anaheim chief of police.

Miss McCullah will have charge of the musical program.

MYSTERY MAN IS SOUGHT IN PRINDLE CASE

answered final questions for the district attorney.

Miss Pringle will not be recalled, it was said, unless her appearance should besome imperative through some unforeseen happening.

Gordon, under questioning by District Attorney Buron Fitts and Robert Stewart, chief deputy, said he heard a woman scream as he was working in his shop on the third floor of the Pantages building about 5:15 p. m. on August 9.

"I ran to the mezzanine floor and saw a girl's hand protruding from a partially closed door," he said. "I pushed against the door and saw a man holding the girl by her left leg."

He identified the man and the girl as Pantages and Miss Pringle.

Gordon declared that as he attempted to enter the little room another woman reached from behind him and tried to close the door. He opened it, however, and saw Pantages kneeling on the floor with his trousers disarranged, he testified. Miss Pringle, according to Gordon, ran past him and fled screaming down a hallway.

Gordon said he looked into the room and that a man came in and helped Pantages to his feet. Then the door was slammed and he waited until the man and Pantages came out and started toward another office on the second floor.

Gordon said he followed and was on the second floor when Miss Pringle returned with a policeman and several other men.

REV. HARLOW TO HEAD BOYS' WORK GROUPS

The Rev R. W. Harlow was chosen chairman of the city-wide cooperative church committee for boys' work at the committee's first meeting of the season, held yesterday in the Y. M. C. A.

This co-operative committee is made up of representatives of the various churches of the city, one man being appointed by each church to represent it on the committee, and the work of the group is to promote and co-ordinate the work for boys in the church and Sunday school programs, and to make full use of the Y. M. C. A. equipment in that activity.

Ten churches weer represented at the meeting yesterday, two or three of the men being unable to attend. From the reports given it appeared that there would be Friendly Indian and Pioneer clubs for boys in almost every one of the co-operating churches this fall, the number of such clubs varying in each case with the number of boys to be served.

Plans were made for a meeting in the Y. M. C. A., Friday night for the reorganization of the Hi-Y clubs. The affair will be a dinner meeting, opening at 6 o'clock, and it is to be attended by all former Hi-Y members and past and prospective leaders of Hi-Y groups.

On Thursday night of next week there is to be a general meeting in the Y of all leaders of boys' groups and clubs in the Sunday schools, to start the work of training leaders and to consider further plans for the promotion of the boys' club activities. Plans are under way for the development of a few boys' clubs with the Y. as the center, to serve boys who are not at present attending any regular Sunday school classes. The goal is to place the character building program of the Y. within the reach of every boy in Santa Ana who needs it and will accept it.

$90,000 WEIR CONSTRUCTION AGREED UPON

A definite step toward water conservation for Orange county, the benefits of whic hmay be realized during the winter of 1930, had been taken today with the announcement that this county, with Riverside and San Bernardino counties and the Tri-counties Water Conservation association, will co-operate in construction of a $90,000 weir at the mouth of the Santa Ana canyon to facilitate spreading of water.

The announcement came following a meeting, yesterday, in San Bernardino, at which the boards of supervisors of the three counties met to discuss the project. The Orange county board first inspected the site of the proposed structure and met the other boards, which already had seen the location, at the California hotel, in San Bernardino, at noon.

Each county will appropriate $10,000 for the present fiscal year and it is expected that like sums will be made available by the counties in the coming fiscal year. The Tri-counties Water Conservation association will provide $30,000, according to the plan worked out yesterday. The expense of constructing the weir will be distributed over two fiscal years, with the water companies of the three counties assisting through the conservation association.

Engineering work will proceed with the idea that actual construction may start in March or April, thus bringing the weir to completion by the following winter. The agreement which has been in effect for years, whereby water much reach the Chapman street bridge in flood time before water is spread in the upper counties, will remain in effect.

that sold automobiles for an Anaheim dealer.

Reports reached the sheriff's office that a man's body had been found on the ranch and officers, who formerly worked with McClellan, and Coroner Charles D. Brown went to the scene, not knowing until they arrived that teh body was that of the former officer.

On the steering wheel of the automobile, McClellan had left two sealed letters. One was addressed to Coroner Brown, a close friend, and the other to Mrs. Eva McClellan, his wife. The letter to Mrs. McClellan was not opened. Coroner Brown's letter was one of despondency, it was said, and left no doubt as to the cause of death. Sheriff's officers at first thought he may have been murdered but the letter to Coroner Brown dispelled this theory.

Mrs. McClellan, who at present is staying on the Modjeska ranch, was notified of her husband's death last night. She was expected to come to Santa Ana today for the purpose of making funeral arrangements. The body of McClellan was taken to the Winbigler Mission funeral home, where the services will be held at a time to be announced later. No inquest into the death is expected.

McClellan will be remembered here particularly for his work as a police officer. He was appointed chief criminal deputy sheriff on January 7, 1923, at the time Sheriff Sam Jernigan first went into office and he held that position until August 15, 1927.

He played a prominent part in the police activities of this county during the past six years and was responsible for the bringing to justice of a number of the most desperate characters Orange county had had to contend with during that time. Regarded as absolutely fearless, on several occasions McClellan handled bad situations single handed, one of which was the La Habra election riot of several years ago, in which a police officer was wounded. McClellan arrived on the scene and single handed disarmed a number of men, bringing the leaders to the county jail by himself.

Police circles of the county were shocked today to hear of his untimely death, while the news to his friends came as a great blow

POP CORN BARRED FROM COUNTY ROADS

Highways of Orange county no longer will be safe for pop corn balls, for the board of supervisors, with Capt. Henry Meehan, of the state traffic squad, today decided to launch a determined drive to sweep them from the roadways in the interest of safety.

Armed with an ordinance passed some time ago, the board instructed Captain Meehan to take action to keep vendors of the confections from the highways.

The matter was brought to the board's attention by a letter from Fred H. Bixby, urging that the ordinance be enforced on roads leading through the Bixby holdings and those of the Hellman interests. Bixby's letter stated that he would co-operate in the matter by barring the pop corn vendors from his property adjoining the roads.

ENDORSEMENT GIVEN STATE PARK SITE BY COMMITTEES

W. H. Griswold of the Capistrano Chamber of Commerce said that his district had worked for the Santa Margarita Ranch as a state park, but that it lay in three counties and was therefore eliminated by the county state park plan as outlined by Mr. Talbert.

There was no one representing the Laguna Beach proposition and no data was placed before the joint committee setting forth its size or any facts concerning it. This reduced the matter to a consideration of the strip lying north from Newport Beach.

In a summary of the reasons why it should receive endorsement, Mr. Talbert characterized it as the most neglected oceanfront in Southern California and said that as a state park it would be kept clean and presentable, making it an asset to the rest of the coast line from the point of attractiveness. The price he said was reasonable (this was later estimated at about $800,000). the beach has a width of 200 to 375 feet of sand to mean high tide and the tide lagoon could be made a still water channel for boating. From 200,000 to 300,000 people can be accommodated nicely, he estimated. Plenty of fresh water is available, wells bringing it nearly to the surface, he pointed out. The strip is 12,400 feet in length.

In the ensuing discussion of the property it was decided that a width of a quarter of a mile would be sufficient for all purposes. an dthe resolution as finally adopted read: That as the Park Commissions wants beach frontage for a park in Orange county, that we recommend the Newport Beach-Huntington Beach site be adopted for a beach park, consideration being taken of the fact that by connecting the publicly owned frontage of the city of Huntington Beach and of Newport Beach it would give nine or ten miles of beach for public use.

The pledge of the joint committee was briefly given in a motion to assist in making the Santa Margarita Ranch a district state park when Mr Talbert moved that: We favor and endorse the Santa Margarita Ranch as a state district park, which received unanimous vote. This was followed by a motion made by Captain H. H. Hammer that a committee of 5 go to San Diego to place the district project before the park committee of the Chamber of Commerce of San Diego county. On the suggestion of Mr. Armitage this was also to place it before the realtors' convention this week. The committee appointed consists of Capt. H H. Hammer of San Clemente, T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach, W H. Griswold of Capistrano, George E. Thompson of Laguna Beach, Jess Armitage of Sunset Beach and George Raymer of Santa Ana.

Committeemen and others present at the conference of the two committees were Councilman C. O. Wheat and Mayor R. E Dolly, of Seal Beach; Jess Armitage, of Sunset Beach; T. B. Talbert, of Huntington Beach; Harry Welch, Newport Beach; W. H. Griswold and Carl Hankey, Capistrano; Capt. H H. Hammer, San Clemente; George Raymer, Santa Ana, and George T Kellogg, Yorba Linda. A majority of the coast towns was officially represented, it was pointed out.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Stocks rallied today after irregularity had prevailed in the early dealings.

A few of the higher priced shares and some of the more volatile cheaper stocks sold off, International Combustion being an outstanding weak feature, at one time being off 8 points.

Profit taking was severe in such shares as Radio Corporation, General Electric, American Can, Consolidated Gas, Montgy Ward, U S Steel, American & Foreign Power, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Eastman Kodak and Westinghouse Electric But all of these rallied from their lows under the lead of steel.

Traders were prone to take profits as a result of counsel to that effect sent uot by most of the brokerage houses overnight. Several of the important houses stated there was little prospect of theb road advance continuing at this time, although most of them had specific recommendations of issues said to be due for a rise.

Trading quieted down under the volume of yesterday in the first half hour due to absence of large blocks. Sales in this period amounted to 675,600 shares, compared with 747,100 shares yesterday. Tickers nevertheles were forced 15 minutes behind as a result of large number of small orders.

United States Steel was depressed sharply after opening fractionally lower and this helped other shares to decline. The issue came back quickly, however, and its rallying power instilled confidence into other weak spots.

Call money declined to 6 percent from the renewal rate of 6½, accelerating the recovery.

Crude oil output for the week ended October 5 decreasing 18,621 barrels daily, this favorable factor being reflected in further demand for Petroleum shares where Houston and Jersey Standard featured.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—(UP)—Cables reporting estimates of a 50 percent cut in this year's Argentine wheat crop were wasted on a dull Chicago grain market today. A slightly better, demand for hard winter wheats appeared at the seaboard. Corn and oats were about steady in the quiet trade. Provisions lost slightly.

Wheat prices moved within a narrow range on the Board of Trade during the morning. The market's action in the face of recent bullish news was discouraging to many operators and, in spite of European and Argentine cables promising a good export business for this country in the future, prices were only a trifle higher before midday Cash prices were ½c lower. Receipts were 84 cars.

Corn was practically unchanged most of the session and the early trading was very inactive. Weather was generally favorable for drying out the new crop but no heavy movements on its maturing is expected. Cash markets were strong early and spot sales ½ to 1c higher. Receipts were 102 cars.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Notwithstanding a lower price trend on the stock exchange, curb stocks continued to maintain a firm tone today after some irregularity at the opening.

Electric Investors, Electric Bond & Share, Interstate equities, Vacuum Oil and Lehman Corporation were strong at advances of a fraction to more than 2 points each.

Selling in United Light & Power A Pennroad and Associated Gas & Electric were well taken at small declines.

AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

CHAPTER XXXII

Helen stared at Brent like a helpless creature caught in a net. Her face drained white while he held her gaze with his own, seeming to force his will upon her.

Then something very strange happened to her. A warm flood purely mental but with actual physical sensation, rushed to her heart, and filled it with courage.

She thought of Bob—of his kisses—of the blissful joy of lying in his arms, of the divinely happy knowledge that she belonged there—that he would shelter her, love her, protect her always.

Brent's face became satanic. Helen shuddered with a slight tremor. Had she ever really thought him attractive?

Suddenly she hated him. What had he done? He had let a young girl remain madly infatuated with him when with a word he could have ended it. Why? Because he wanted to live his life for her? She could not believe it.

A smile of disillusion caught at her lips and contorted their lovely lines into an unfamiliar shape. It worried Brent a trifle. He had seen that expression on other feminine lips. And always it had presaged the beginning of an end.

Words would follow—he knew that too—and waited. They came sooner than he expected. He had lighted one of his fat Turkish cigarets. From behind the smoke screen he manufactured with it he surveyed the girl seated across the table from him with the coldly calculating eyes of a fox.

She leaned over and opened her denunciation rather softly. "I hate you," she said tensely. "You're like a poison vine that has fastened itself upon a young tree and is gradually strangling it. You thought you could do that with me. Rob me of my life—train me to grow up stunted and dwarfed."

"You're wrong," Brent broke in sharply. "I wanted you to be a real girl—not an empty-headed flapper."

"You wanted me to be a characterless rag," Helen retorted. "One who would overlook your weaknesses and come to heel at your whistle. Can't you see what you say when you tell me that you sacrificed yourself for me? Was it fair? Did I have anything to say about it? Did I promise you a reward? You have no right to do anything for which you mean to make someone else pay a price unless you make your bargain first. Everyone has a right to grow up free—and not be saddled with a debt they've had no voice in acquiring."

"You were quite willing to have me love you," Brent reminded her.

"But you knew I was just a kid," Helen protested. "You shouldn't have led me on as you did. Oh, I know you weren't always kind to me, but you fascinated me, and it wasn't...it wasn't cricket. You must have realized that some day I would meet the right man—that I couldn't stay in love with you. It would have been so much better if you'd lived your life for yourself."

"Well," Brent agreed a bit laconically, "I didn't, and that's that. What are you going to do about it? Be a quitter just because you think you care for a young upstart? A bum too. Why, you poor foolish girl. Don't you know that any man in Ennis' position who aspires to marry a girl as wealthy as you are is open to the charge of being a fortune hunter?"

"No matter what you say, I love him," Helen declared. "How can you think of marrying me when I tell you that?"

"That's just another one of those things you wouldn't understand," was Brent's unsatisfactory answerd

"Well, Helen said, and her voice was vibrant with sincerity, "I am sure you can understand me when I say I will not marry you."

Brent contented himself with raising an eyebrow, knowing that she would go on.

"I was wrong to think of it after I knew that I loved Bob," she said hurriedly; "but I did believe I owed you something. All that is changed now. You will be able to console yourself readily enough. And if I had not seen what I did and you had told me you meant to make me pay your price for the care you've given me I should feel just as I do now about marrying you. You've cured me of believing in sacrifices. If I sacrificed myself and Bob now I couldn't make you happy—it would be a useless gesture."

Brent smiled inwardly. "Let me be the judge of that," he contributed.

Helen shook her head. "No," she said firmly. "I'm going to make my own decisions—and stick to them."

"Are you?" Brent drawled, beginning to be amused. After all, he thought, she might be more interesting as an unwilling bride. It would be a diversion to spend a little time in conquering her. And it suited his mood, which had lost all gravity—in the certainty that he held the whip hand over her—to let her have the reins and pull and champ at the bit.

There was always his ace card to be played. She had nothing in her hand to play against it. He was absolutely safe—as safe as such a game as his could be, he amended. Damn it, why hadn't he been able to discover the owner of that second locket?

As his mind swept back over the night he had picked it up in the hall at Bramblewood he remembered that no one present had appeared to have lost aything.

And he hadn't dared ask about it. Even a few tetnative questions put to Helen had elicited no knowledge of the locket, or of any loss among her guests.

Brent had found himself up against a blank wall in regard to his discovery. His inability to place the ownership was the one genuine worry he had in the matter of acquiring the Cunningham fortune. Carmel was a nuisance. He knew he should probably always have to keep her at a distance with the payment of a reasonable amount of blackmail, but she did not greatly trouble him. Eva he dismissed with a shrug.

Helen was gathering her fur about her neck preparatory to leaving the table. Brent saw that she meant to end their luncheon abruptly.

He stood up and assisted her by drawing back her chair when she arose. His manner was perfect. "Allow me to pay the check and go with you," he said pleasantly.

Helen realized that her attitude was childish. Brent had always told her that superior persons did not follow impulses—though he followed many of them himself. But Helen did not know it.

Remembering what he had said she decided to be more worldly. "Very well," she said quietly. The drive to the station would give her an opportunity to impress upon him fully and finally that she was serious, she reflected. And she wanted to leave him with no doubt in his mind that everything was at an end between them.

Presently they were making a tortuous way through a traffic jam. Helen seized the moment to turn to Brent and tell him that, as they could not avoid seeing each other on matters connected with the Cunningham estate, he must understand that she was going to marry Bob Ennis.

"Are you?" he said lazily, almost disinterestedly. Then he laughed. "Soon?"

Helen blushed furiously. She felt as though Brent knew that she had quarreled with Bob.

"Because, before you marry him," Brent went on, "I have something to say to you that may cause you to change your mind."

Helen missed the underlying threat in his words. "Nothing you could say could do that," she rejoined coldly.

"No?" It pleased Brent to play with her. "Do you believe that enough to give me your promise not to marry anyone else without first hearing what I have to say?"

"Of course I do," Helen declared with the fullest assurance that the course of true love was now to run smoothly for her.

"I shall consider that a sacred promise," Bret told her.

Helen did not answer. In a few minutes they were at the station.

"I'll be up to see you soon," Brent said in parting, "and please try to keep that kid Eva away. I want to have a long talk with you."

"Oh," Helen said suddenly, scarcely thinking of his request. "Eva was coming down today. I forgot all about it. We might have gone back together."

Under his breath Brent said: "The devil."

He'd had no intention of going back to his apartment to receive Carmel, should she indulge her threat to return. But he feared now that Eva would be there. Should they meet...."I'd better be on hand," he said to himself even as he waved goodby to Helen.

It irked him to stay indoors, and as the afternoon wore away and neither Eva or Carmel came in he cursed himself for a fool. "I should have gone up with Helen and put an end to her nonsense," he reflected as he dressed for dinner.

Suppose she shouldn't keep her promise and eloped with Ennis—no, her word was reliable, he could depend upon it. Still, Brent felt, he had made a mistake. The affair with Ennis could grow—better to have nipped it in the bud.

All at once he made one of his quick decision, and turned to put it into effect.

Women Voters At Board Meeting To View Proceedings

Desirous of witnessing the operation of county government at first hand a group of women, representing the League of Women Voters in this city, today attended the session of the board of supervisors in the courthouse.

The group consisted of Mrs. Louise G. Mock, Mrs. Jane E. Campbell and Mrs. C. W. Gordon. Charles Chapman, supervisor from Santa Ana, introduced the trio to the other members of the board. Mrs. Mock explained that the state constitution had not afforded a very complete outline of the supervisors' duties and that the group had decided to learn about county government at first hand. She stated that the group might return from time to time.

Stop Chasing Rainbows

These columns are full of good ads, but let's analyze them. How many can you find where you can secure the following? National advertising in The Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal and Good Housekeeping. No deposits or investment required. In order to prove every word of this ad there will be men in this office Friday night to meet you and tell you of their success and how they are making money.

SQUARE DEALING REQUIRED FOR PRIVATE AND PUBLIC BUSINESS

As we observed in an editorial yesterday, Santa Ana and Orange county are having a most wonderful growth. New business enterprises are opening in our city almost weekly. Additional homes are being erected in the city and in various sections of the county. The tremendous natural advantages of this entire region are making their constant appeal to folks from the Middle West and from the East, so that our population is steadily advancing.

Santa Ana herself as the county seat, and as the principal city of Orange County, has been an increasingly attractive place for the trading public. As volume of trade increases, prices are reduced. The greater volume of business which any man is able to do makes it possible for him to reduce the margin of cost of the article he sells because his overhead very largely remains the same. And as we look at Santa Ana, we see business men who have been in business here for two decades or more. We see men who have had a constant and steady growth of business, and see them expanding. New buildings are being erected, larger and better ones are constantly going up.

Money, which is required for such development, seems to be available, and for all these things there is a reason. Men do not increase their business except by conforming to such laws of business and ethical principles as appeal to the intelligent judgment of the consuming public, for let it be known that today the laws of business are on a higher plane than ever in the history of trade and competition. Sharp practices, short weights, and misrepresentation are recognized as the sure forerunners of lost trade and bankruptcy. Honor, integrity, truth, and frankness are the assurances of continued business and a larger business. Business is built upon the confidence of the public, and confidence has its firm foundation in the character of those in whom the people have confidence. When confidence exists, when character is established, enterprises go forward by leaps and bounds.

In the political department of Orange county, however, required capital for progress has not been available in full and rounded measure. There is no place where confidence and character are a greater prime necessity than when a bond issue is presented to the voters for their approval. There is the real test, and with business developing in every direction, all those who are interested in the future welfare of Orange county should see to it that to the limit of their power, conditions are such politically in the county that character is demonstrated and confidence is held.

We have just been passing through an experience, the details of which the public knows, concerning an employe of the very ones who would be in charge of an expenditure of money providing bonds were voted by the people of the county. We doubt seriously if there are many intelligent people in Orange county who believe that the voters of this county would vote millions of dollars into the hands of any group of men who, in their political action, have the conception of private practices and public duty which is evidenced by retaining a man in their employ who has been doing the things which the evidence disclosed this employe had been doing.

Can we expect a thinking, conscientious electorate will turn over millions by a bond issue to men who protect an employe in selling his influence with officers to defeat justice? Orange county and Santa Ana should go forward. They can only go forward by applying to their political life the same high ideals, ethical standards, and business practices that are shown by the best and keenest and cleanest business men in the community. Morals demand it; for religion and morals declare that the law of love of man to man shall not be outraged by greed and vile practices.

Science demands it; for science discloses that the cause for disintegration and decay must be removed in order that the organism shall recover and be sound. It should not be covered up and left to fester.

Business demands it; every big business enterprise that has ever amounted to anything in the world anywhere has had as its foundation in truth and honor, and if it has ever encountered those who used it for personal and illegitimate ends, it has had to have those people eliminated on behalf of its continued expansion.

We would cite the Indiana fight in the Standard Oil between John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Robert Stewart.

Heads of great companies only retain their positions by being open with their stockholders and disclosing the facts as they are. Nothing would drive directors from their positions more quickly than to use the stockholders' money and attempt to carry on their important matters in such secret conclaves that the stockholders could never learn about it. We have noticed sometimes that a caterer will advertise that his kitchen is open for inspection to his patrons at any time. How long would this caterer retain the confidence of his patrons if before you were admitted into the kitchen, the doors were closed, a secret meeting was held, and there was some room in which the food was prepared that you had to eat, which you could not see.

When the people of this county have political activities open and aboveboard; when public propositions are frankly and openly discussed, giving an opportunity to all people to hear and participate; when favoritism and political influence by the few is a thing of the past; when the same honor and integrity and disposition to serve the public is evidenced in our political circles as is shown in our business, religious and social circles, and when justice is not bought and sold, nor servants who do these things kept; when the facts are before them; then and not until then can that confidence be possible which will insure the development of our political business as we develop our commercial business.

Every man who loves Orange county and Santa Ana, who desires to see them successful, should insist that the time has arrived when all of the taxpayers and all of the voters, even the foreigner within our midst, shall be treated fairly and squarely and impartially, not only because it is right and anything else is wrong, but because it is the only way that we can go forward as a united community, with money voted by the people in the form of bonds to carry on the things required to be carried on on behalf of us all.

A Kansas City caddy sued a golfer for $50,000 for an eye injury. Golfers who have lost their balls on the course may find it hard to understand how a caddy's eyes could be worth $50,000.

GENEROSITY AND PARITY

Premier Ramsay MacDonald's message to the Senate, and American people, yesterday inspires eulogy. None of his words were more significant than: Parity? Take it, without reserve, heaped up and flowing over. That was the only condition under which competitive armaments could be stopped . . . .

When the question of disarmament brought forth the question of parity between the two nations, diplomatic relations could have developed along either one of two lines. One was to permit military authorities free reign to discuss and argue the matter of the equality of armament in the two countries and to become involved in such a maze of technical discussion that the general public would have been hopelessly lost and the spirit of peace and friendship might have been smothered by bitterness and hatred.

The other is the way Premier MacDonald and President Hoover have selected. It is the social rather than the anti-social way. When our children are dividing equally a tid-bit, we strain ourselves to teach them to be generous in their division, not to require a compass or tape-measure. We try to teach them that the love of their companions is of more worth than the thing which they are dividing; to develop in them a spirit of generosity and unselfishness which would cause them to rejoice in an unequal division that the larger portion might be given to the companion as an expression of love.

It is not so silly as it seems when reduced to nursery events to suggest carrying this same endeavor to improve social relationships over to international affairs for it is the same spirit which will carry us on the road to a successful accomplishment of peace. To say, as Premier MacDonald has said, "Parity? Take it, without reserve heaped up and flowing over," is but to recognize that the spirit back of parity makes parity itself unimportant. We can afford to be generous with one another in this matter of parity because back of it is a spirit of peace which will, in the end render armaments obsolete.

General Chang, the Manchurial war lord, was fined $150 the other day for an accidental killing. So they have innocent bystanders in China, too.

A WISECRACK CONTEST

"Do my ayes deceive me?" was the winning "wisecrack" in a "wisecrack" contest conducted by The Pathfinder. Second prizes were awarded to ten other contestants.

Among the "wisecracks" winning second prizes was one from a minister in Oregon who made his "wisecrack" under very trying circumstances saying, "I live on faith, my wife, on hope, and my children on charity."

Several of the others are worth reprinting, if only to recall some better ones which some of us may have heard in the daily course of events:

"I never expected to live to see the day when the girls would get sunburned on the places they do now."

"Ef, ah couldn't make bofe ends meet wif de big money, what's ah gonna do wid dis yar small stuff?"

"The 'talkies' at many movies depends on who sits near you."

"Pedestrians have more rites than drivers."

"If a davenport is a sheik's work-bench a rumble seat is a flapper's showcase."

"But it's better to have halitosis than to have no breath at all."

Long Lashes and Poor Health

New York Times

From time immemorial starry-eyed beauties of the first rank have always boasted long, curling lashes. Pretty girls who have not been blest with the desired length of lash have often supplied the deficiency by a liberal use of mascara.

Now it develops that this traditional mark of beauty is also a sign of ill health. Dr. Tamaoki of the Kyushu Imperial University has made a two-year study of some 7,000 children and reports that most children with strikingly long lashes are not in good health. During the first year of its life the lashes of a baby suffering with scrofula, for example, will grow a quarter of an inch, while those of a normally healthy child grow only one-eighth of an inch. Consumptive children generally have lashes twice as long as those of healthy children. Dr. Tamaoki gives no explanation of his findings, nor does he set up long lashes as an unfailing indication of an individual's state of health.

In other days ill health was often considered an enhancement to beauty. Novels were full of languid maidens, "pale and interesting," suffering beautifully from frightful maladies. Now that exuberant health is the fashion there is danger that long lashes may come into disrepute when it is found that they hint at debility.

A Bad Case of "Spots Before the Eyes"!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WHERE HONOR IS DUE

I knew that the Romans of old
Were people of power and might,
I knew they were valiant and bold
And regular bears in a fight.
I knew they would die in the face of a foe
Right down to the last humble talesman
But I never believed, till a few days ago,
That Rome was a city of salesmen.

Nor reader did you, I presume
Suspect that in that distant day
Old Rome had a real estate boom
Like we have in our own U. S. A.
You have heard she had lawyers and doctors, no doubt
And statesmen with lofty ambitions
But not, I am sure, that the town was laid out
In new all-improvement additions.

Plebeians, enriched by the wars
Not content with their lowly stone cots,
Wanted houses with three or four floors
Upon centrally located plots,
And the keen witted real estate brokers of Rome,
Alive to all up to date movements,
Sold dwellings, as soon as the armies came home,
With all of the latest improvements.

So we of this up-to-date day
Need not look with contemptuous pity
Nor think in our top lofty way
Of the folk of that great ancient city.
The Romans were wonders, we well are aware
In battle, in law and in letters,
And now we discover it only is fair
To admit they were also go-getters.

Economic Nonsense

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

"Your ideas about high wages," one critic writes, "are economic nonsense. Everybody knows that the higher wages you pay, the less work you get done. Nothing brings laborers to terms so quickly as empty bellies."

That sounds familiar. It was the view taken by nearly all the English Lords and Landlords in the eighteenth century. They insisted that the great masses of workers must be kept in poverty.

"Hard times are a benefit," declared Sir William Temple, "because they encourage industry in the poor." Sir Joshua Child urged increased immigration as a means of forcing wages down. Sir William Petty had an idea of his own. He said that low-priced corn made labor dear; so he advocated a public granary in which corn might be withheld in order to keep up the cost of living.

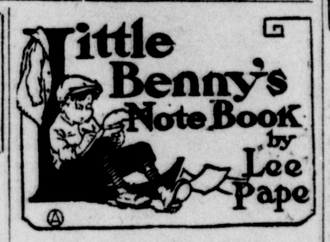

"All manufacturers agree," concluded the Reverend Joseph Townsend, "that the poor are seldom diligent, except when labor is cheap and corn is dear." And Josiah Tucker spoke for all the upper classes when he said: "It is greatly for the public good if the price of labor is continually beat down."

For two generations this policy was given a thorough trial in England. The result was the most demoralizing sloth, poverty, despair and crime that England has ever known.

Exactly the opposite policy now prevails in most industries in the United States. As a result, all records the world over have been broken for production and real wages. Also for scarcity of "empty bellies."

A little "nonsense" of this kind, now and then is relished by the best of men.

Thoughts On Modern Life

PORTRAIT OF A GIFTED MIND

Genius defies both the camera and the creative portrait painter.

The gifted man wears a thousand different garbs, and works havoc among the system-makers who would pour mankind into a standardized pattern.

But, whether we are parent or pedagogue, we want to know early whether son or student is gifted or dull, and there are certain constants that can be looked for and found fairly indicative of the gifted or the dull mind.

The gifted mind usually bears the following marks:

First, the gifted mind thinks quickly; it is blessed with the faculty of facile learning; it reads rapidly; it remembers effectively; facts, figures, and fancies etch themselves on the gifted mind with a clarity of outline and vividness of color that the dull mind never knows; it has the godlike gift of concentration, being able to build a castle wall around itself in the midst of clatter that would be bedlam to the dull mind; it can catch an idea on the fly.

Second, the gifted mind can stick at the job of thinking longer without fatigue than the dull mind can; it is sustained, tenacious, and blessed with the blessing of endurance; it does not lose its wind easily.

Third, the gifted mind is prodded by a perpetual curiosity; it does not have to be cranked by external stimuli; it is a self-starter, which is a simple way of saying it has initiative; and it is original, being neither parrot nor peddler of second-hand ideas and inspirations.

Fourth, the gifted mind can see laws lurking behind little facts; it can generalize; it can see a principle at work behind a half dozen news stories dealing with a development in a given field of public affairs; it can relate things, ideas, forces, desires that are alike even though they may wear different dress and show themselves in different departments of life; it can see the abstract back of the concrete, the general back of the specific, the idea back of the incident; it has the power of putting things together, which is another way of saying it has the power of associating ideas.

Fifth, the gifted mind is ruthlessly self-critical; it never thinks it knows when it does not know; it is on to itself; and it is never afraid to admit its ignorance.

Sixth, the gifted mind is not the prisoner of a petty round of interests; the appetite of its interests is insistent and wide-ranging; it is versatile as well as vivid.

There are gifted minds that do not answer accurately to this hastily drawn portrait, but in the main these are, I think, marks of the man with a good head on his shoulders.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

HE WON'T EAT

Again and again the complaint comes in: He won't eat for me. Well, why should he? One ought to eat for his own sake. Nobody else should take over that duty and pleasure. The root of the matter lies just there in many instances. The child feels he is eating for somebody else and he gets no fun out of the process. Once he gets the idea that he eats for himself alone, that he goes hungry when he doesn't, things will change.

Eating is a habit. To be sure the habit is based upon the primary need of the body for nourishment, but that makes the habit all the more secure. A child must eat to live and the impulse, the instinct to live is the strongest one we possess. A child will eat when he gets hungry. He will not starve himself to death unless he is a fit subject for a hospital, and a few of the food users are that.

The child learned to eat in the wrong way. His attitude was set wrong in the beginning. Very likely his mother worried and fretted about every meal he took. Some mothers hang over the feeding infant a tremble lest he leave a drop in the bottle or the glass. That anxiety communicates itself to the child and creates the wrong attitude in him.

Sometimes the mother's anxiety creates fear in the child. Something is wrong somewhere, he senses, and refuses to eat. Fear kills appetite. Sometimes, indeed very often, the child discovers that this is the way to create great interest in himself. His mother will stop the wheels of the household in order to watch him eat. That makes him feel highly important, just the feeling he craves.

Other children use eating as a weapon to force favors from reluctant parents. "I won't eat for you."

"O, see how good it is. Mother fixed it especially for you. Benny can't have any of this. It is all for you. Come eat it."

"No. I won't eat for you. You're bad. Yen wouldn't give me a lolly-pop."

"All right. Eat this for mother and she'll give you one."

Once that relationship is established eating becomes a struggle between mother and child. He keeps raising the price and she keeps struggling to keep it down.

Nor is it only young children who make a weapon of their loss of appetite. Grown up young men and women, older ones, too, take advantage of the mother's fear for their well-being and refuse to eat until they can have their own way. Once that is assured they beam kindly upon poor mother and let her serve them a good meal.

If poor mother would only understand and allow them all, young and old, to eat or leave it, as they wished, and go her way with evident nonchalance, the eating problem would soon solve itself. Nobody, child or grownup, will starve with food within reach. Let them eat for themselves.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY OF

CHICAGO'S GREAT FIRE

On October 8, 1871, Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over the kerosene lamp that started Chicago's great fire.

The cow barn in which the fire originated was on De Koven street, near the corner of Jefferson, on the west side of the river.

This region was composed largely of shanties and the fire spread rapidly, very soon crossing the river to the south side and fastening on that part of the city which contained nearly all the leading business houses.

Fanned by a gale, the fire raged uncontrolled for two days and nights, sweeping over 2100 acres, destroying 17,450 buildings and causing 200 deaths.

The amount of the total property loss was estimated at $200,000,000. Of this vast sum, about half was covered by insurance, but under the tremendous losses many of the insurance companies were forced to the wall, and the victims of the conflagration recovered only about one-fifth of their aggregate losses.
